TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita hit the thinly populated coast of northeastern Mexico early today with torrential rains and 155-mile-per-hour winds.

The principal town in Anita's path was Soto la Marina, with a population of 2,500.

Artemio Alfaro, municipal treasurer of Soto la Marina, said, "There are strong rains and hurricane-force winds, but up to the moment we haven't received any reports of damages or injuries."

"All the people in La Pesca have been evacuated to Soto la Marina and they are being sheltered in schools, churches and the theater."

La Pesca, a tiny coastal fishing village, and Soto la Marina bore the brunt of Hurricane Ella in 1970.

National Weather Service radar in Brownsville showed that Anita — labeled an "extremely dangerous" hurricane — was pushing tides of 12-15 feet along the Texas-Mexico coast.

The leading edge of the storm dumped torrential rains along about 200 miles of the Mexican coast. Water covered some Tampico streets and the highways north of Tampico and Ciudad Victoria reportedly were flooded.

At 6 a.m., EDT, the eye of Anita, the season's first hurricane, was centered at latitude 24.0 north and longitude 97.7 west, a few miles inland, about 130 miles south of Brownsville, Tex. It was moving at about 12 m.p.h., the National Hurricane Center in Miami said.

Anita, which earlier had been expected to hit the Texas area of Brownsville-Corpus Christi, spawned winds of 45 m.p.h. and moderate rain in the Brownsville area, about 100 miles north of here.

In San Fernando, a small town of about 15,000 located 20 miles inland in a marshy area, soldiers, police and volunteers evacuated about 2,000 people Thursday afternoon.

Mexican troops, aided by police and navy units, evacuated about 35,000 persons from Matamoros, across the border from Brownsville.

"The evacuation is proceeding in an orderly manner," said Brig. Gen. Edmundo Castro Villareal, commander of the military district stretching from Tampico to the U.S. border. "The Ministry of Defense has given us the authority to take whatever measures are necessary during the emergency."

Castro Villareal said military and police patrols had been set up in the evacuated areas to guard against looting. He said refugee centers were stocked with about three days of food.

Doctors, nurses and other Red Cross personnel were on standby, said Jesus Nava, the Red Cross administrator in Matamoros.

Rotterdam Eyes Floating Brothel

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — City officials are considering a plan to put Rotterdam's prostitutes aboard a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks.

Mayor Andre van der Louw and three other members of the City Council are going to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be for sale.

A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

The ship plan will be presented to the City Council on Oct. 13, and City Hall sources say approval is expected.

"The sooner it gets going the better," one streetwalker told a reporter who asked what the ladies of the evening think of the idea.

Rotterdam's brothel owners — not the city government — would buy the ship. Rechristened "Eros Center," it would be moored alongside the old port administration building and would have a restaurant and bar.

Officials said the government is prepared to sell the building to the brothel owners and will help them find a reasonably priced, second-hand ship.

"Of course, we would have nothing to do with the running of such a scheme once it is set up," said the spokeswoman for the city government, Toos de Jong.

Prostitution is illegal in Holland, but the authorities have tolerated it for many years. Prostitutes are rarely prosecuted. The city has more than 60 brothels, many of which advertise in the newspapers. Brothel owners usually are prosecuted only when they employ girls under the age of 18.

The floating brothel is expected to accommodate many but not all of the prostitutes in Rotterdam, one of Europe's major ports. But authorities have said if the plan goes through, the police will crack down on prostitutes and brothels that don't cooperate.

Highway, Home Safety Stressed For Weekend

Col. Adam G. Reiss, superintendent of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, urged Ohio motorists to think about the Labor Day weekend "and mentally gear for driving at 55 mph."

Citing this year's Fourth of July holiday weekend when 29 people were killed on Ohio's highways, Col. Reiss stressed that excessive speed was a contributing factor in almost all fatal accidents.

"To combat speed and other hazardous traffic law violations, Ohio has joined with three other states in OPERATION C.A.R.E., "Col. Reiss said.

C.A.R.E. stands for Combined Accident Reduction Effort and calls for maximum exposure of marked cars and aircraft during the three-and-one-fourth day holiday period.

"By saturating our highways with marked patrol cars we hope to obtain voluntary compliance on the part of Ohio drivers with the federally mandated 55 mph speed limit," the Colonel said. "We will also be passing out speed limit reminder cards to motorists to reinforce the safety message."

Col. Reiss warned drivers that highways will be very crowded.

"Labor Day is the last summer holiday and people will be traveling en masse," he said. "Make sure the driver and all passengers in every vehicle use their seatbelts and observe the 55 mph speed limit for a safer, happier holiday."

Lt. Dennis Kohn of Patrol Post 65 said he will have almost all his man power on the roads enforcing the 55 speed limit. He said they will "try to make this last major summer holiday a safe one."

In addition to expressing concern about highway safety, Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff warned travelers to take precautions with their houses.

"Vacationers should have friends or neighbors on the alert for suspicious persons or vehicles around their property," he said. Deputies should be notified immediately of suspected illegal activity.

"We will also put every available man we have in the patrol division on heavily traveled roads," Sheriff Radcliff said, during the duration of the holiday period. That adds up to four patrol cars on every shift by utilizing auxiliary units.

The Sheriff's communication center and all patrol cars will be tuned to channel nine on citizen band for emergency calls.

President Heads For Camp David For Holiday

WASHINGTON A) — President Carter is putting Bert Lance and the Panama Canal behind him, tuning in some country music and heading for the hills.

He set aside time today to say howdy in the Oval Office to Willie Nelson and Emmy Lou Harris, who are country and western singers. An aide said they worked in the Carter campaign.

Then the President summoned a helicopter to lift him out of Washington later in the day, away from its criticism of Lance and its opposition to his Panama treaties and into the quiet of the Catoctin Mountains of Western Maryland.

There, at Camp David, the presidential retreat, he will spend Labor Day weekend. It is Carter's eighth visit to Camp David. He likes to shuck his business suit, climb into blue jeans and stroll through the woods around the presidential lodge.

Carter arranged to leave the capital as suggestions mounted Thursday that he replace Lance as budget director because of questions about Lance's dealings as a Georgia banker. A lengthy probe by the comptroller of the currency has cleared Lance of any crime.

But Congress opens hearings next week on "unsafe and unsound" banking practices the comptroller said

Jobless Rate Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose from 6.9 per cent to 7.1 per cent in August as climbing unemployment among blacks matched a post-World War II high, the government reported today.

In August, the Labor Department said, "the over-the-month increase in unemployment was concentrated among black workers," whose jobless rate rose from 13.2 per cent to 14.5 per cent. The August level matched the post-war high for blacks recorded during the recession in September 1975.

Unemployment among blacks has been traditionally higher than for whites, whose jobless rate was unchanged last month at 6.1 per cent.

Overall joblessness has hovered at about 7 per cent of the work force since April, showing little month-to-month change after dropping steadily from its 1976 high of 8 per cent last November.

Economists say economic growth has slowed following a sharp expansion earlier in the year, and this means fewer jobs are being created to meet the needs of the growing labor force.

"The ratio of black-to-white jobless rates continued its recent updrift to the unusually high level of 2.4 to 1 in August," the Labor Department said.

The rise in black unemployment comes at a time that civil rights and labor leaders have been increasingly criticizing the Carter administration programs for easing unemployment. Earlier this week, the government released figures showing joblessness among black youth, age 16 to 21, reached the highest summertime rate ever recorded — 34.8 per cent.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said today in his annual Labor Day message that President Carter's job-creating programs were nothing more than "Band-aids" and that they would do little to solve the basic unemployment problem.

While the jobless rate rose in August, returning to its June level of 7.1 per cent, the Labor Department reported employment increased by 210,000 to a total of 90.8 million.

The civilian labor force rose by 390,000 in August to a total of 97.7

million, the department said. Both employment and unemployment increased because more people were looking for work than were able to find jobs.

The total number of unemployed was up by 180,000 in August to 6.9 million, with most of the increase occurring among persons who lost their jobs, the Labor Department said.

There is some margin of error as with any survey. But the government contends the relatively large size of the sample assures a high degree of accuracy.

Public Utilities Board Meets

The Circleville Board of Public Utilities met in regular session Thursday evening in the Water Department offices on east Franklin St.

First on the agenda was the approval of previous minutes and vouchers.

Board members discussed procuring needed materials for the sewage treatment plant start-up. The Board authorized Chief Operator Clyde Houdeshell to purchase needed office furniture and miscellaneous supplies for the start of operations.

The Board moved to purchase a time clock for installation at the sewage treatment plant, and also moved to acquire an auditor to work part time and assist in balancing the accounts of the water and sewage departments.

Also discussed was the method used by the Board to approve the payroll vouchers.

The Board tabled a motion to order extra 27 inch sewer and manhole materials.

Project reports were also listed. They are: general contract on the sewage treatment plant, 97 per cent; sludge conditioning with Zimpro, 96 per cent; J. A. Guy, Heating and Ventilation, 99 per cent; American Electrical, 92 per cent; Universal Tank, 97 per cent; Contract 1S, 92 per cent; and Contract 2, 100 per cent.

The deposition in the Hazen and Sawyer court case was reported near completed.

Weather

Warm humid air will continue over Ohio through the weekend and will mix with a weak cold front to increase the chance of thundershowers during the period. Partly cloudy, warm, and humid today, tonight, and Saturday with a 50 per cent chance of thundershowers. Highs will be in the 90s, while the low tonight will be near 70. Temperature extremes for Thursday were 93 and 72.

The suggestions that Lance leave government came from Republican National Chairman Bill Brock and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho. The senator opposed Carter in the Democratic presidential primaries last year.

Brock challenged Carter to replace Lance or admit violating a pledge to govern without apparent impropriety. Church said Lance would serve Carter well by withdrawing from his administration.

Support came from Lance's home state, Georgia Gov. George Busbee said critics have denied Lance even the right to reply given to persons "accused of rape, child molestation or anything else."

DIES AFTER CRASH — Ohio State Highway Patrol authorities said John N. Reese, 73, Ashville, died of a heart attack and not of injuries he suffered in a 1:40 p.m. Thursday accident on Route 23 at Little Walnut. Reese, who apparently suffered the attack while driving north on Route 23, gradually drove off the right side of the road and crashed down an embankment onto property of Floral Hills Cemetery. Reese was transported to Berger Hospital by members of the Harrison Twp. Emergency Squad. He was pronounced dead at 2:30 p.m.

AFL-CIO Helping Election Boards Gear For Registration

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP — The Ohio AFL-CIO is helping election board officials in two counties gear up for the first state election under the contested instant voter registration law it lobbied for.

Secretary-Treasurer Warren J. Smith said Thursday the union pitched in after Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, "failed to do his job. We shouldn't have to do it," he said.

Brown, a Republican, couldn't be reached for immediate comment. However, his assistant, James R. Marsh, said the state office had done all it was supposed to do in implementing the statute. He saw nothing wrong with the AFL-CIO helping if requested locally "if they have the staff and money," said Marsh, adding Brown's office doesn't.

Smith, along with the Democratic party, is at odds with the secretary over the efforts of the mostly

Humphrey Discharged From Hospital

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was to be discharged from University of Minnesota Hospitals today, two weeks after undergoing cancer surgery.

Surgeons discovered an inoperable tumor of the pelvis. A colostomy was performed to relieve a bowel obstruction caused by the tumor and doctors will try to curb the spread of the cancer through chemotherapy, or chemical treatment.

Plans call for the 66-year-old senator to spend some time recuperating at his Waverly home before returning to Washington.

proval of his new Panama Canal treaties by inviting former President Gerald R. Ford to a treaty signing ceremony next Wednesday. He asked Ford to spend the night at the White House.

The former president accepted. Ford's visit was announced after Gov. Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia disputed Carter's contention that most Americans ultimately will support the treaty.

Rockefeller said senators should "go ahead and ratify it based upon their own understanding that it is a reasonable and fair and secure treaty for the United States."

Meanwhile, Carter tied to win over Republican opponents to Senate ap-

Republican Ohioans for the Preservation of Honest Elections to repeal the instant registration provision in the Nov. 8 election. The repeal group, claiming instant sign ups invite fraud, want that day's use to be the first and last.

The AFL-CIO has charged that Brown, who backs the repeal effort, also has dragged his feet deliberately in the implementation of the new law.

Earlier Thursday, Brown denied the charge and said he had sent out all the necessary materials and presided over a four-day training seminar for officials of all 88 counties in Cincinnati in July.

The AFL-CIO official said his organization was helping prepare the materials in Trumbull County and had been requested to do the same in Licking County.

The union told Licking County election officials it would be unable to prepare their materials, but would send "someone over there to tell them how to do it," Smith said.

Under instant registration, a voter will be given a ballot if he produces acceptable identification—such as a driver's license—on the spot.

Smith reiterated earlier complaints that Brown failed to implement promptly some other sections of the new law which permit door-to-door registration, registration by deputy motor vehicle registrars of Ohioans renewing licenses, and other sections generally making it easier to register.

"He should have jumped right in," Smith said, adding that Republicans "obviously are opposed to opening up the voting process to everyone."

He said Brown now has apparently sent out most of the necessary directives but should have done so in time for local elections held after the law became effective May 31.

Rotterdam Eyes Floating Brothel

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — City officials are considering a plan to put Rotterdam's prostitutes aboard a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks.

Mayor Andre van der Louw and three other members of the City Council are going to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be for sale.

A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

Indiana Helmet Law Repeal Worries Patrol

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Traffic Safety Director Tom Williams says he is afraid repeal of Indiana's mandatory helmet law will produce an increase in deaths and injury from motorcycle accidents.

The repeal went into effect Monday.

State Police Col. Arthur R. Raney joins Williams in predicting that injury and fatality tolls for motorcycle riders will skyrocket.

"There's already been an increase in injuries," Raney said Thursday, adding it's too soon to compile any precise statistics.

Williams noted that Rhode Island revoked its mandatory helmet law July 1 and "in the next seven weeks nine persons who were not wearing helmets were killed in motorcycle accidents." Only one death had been reported the previous 12 months, he said.

President Heads For Camp David For Holiday

WASHINGTON A — President Carter is putting Bert Lance and the Panama Canal behind him, tuning in some country music and heading for the hills.

He set aside time today to say howdy in the Oval Office to Willie Nelson and Emmy Lou Harris, who are country and western singers. An aide said they worked in the Carter campaign.

Then the President summoned a helicopter to lift him out of Washington later in the day, away from its criticism of Lance and its opposition to his Panama treaties and into the quiet of the Catoctin Mountains of Western Maryland.

There, at Camp David, the

Swimmer Foiled By Lake Erie

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — "Two tries are enough, that's it," 41-year-old marathon swimmer Bob Elfers said Thursday after wind, waves and age foiled his second attempt to cross Lake Erie's widest point.

The Elyria autoworker, who will be 42 on Labor Day, plowed 24 miles northward from the Ohio shore by the time his 69-year-old father Walter ordered him to abandon his challenge about 1:20 a.m. Thursday.

That left him 39 miles short of his goal, the Canadian shore.

About 20 hours earlier, holding high his faith in God and himself and saying he was sure he'd succeed, the younger Elfers had slipped into the lake in what he hoped would become a world record for continuous open water swimming.

He also said he hoped it would give hope to others over 40 or who, as he described himself, were alcoholics.

But with a 15-knot wind lashing three-foot waves into his face and threatening to swamp the small boat which trailed him, Elfers yielded to his father's command.

After 15 hours in the water, Elfers said his legs had gone dead and his right arm and shoulder had begun to lock.

He said he was using only one arm during the last four hours.

"The old joints aren't what they used to be, I'm convinced," Elfers said after he was hauled from the water into the small boat and then was transferred to the Sea Dream, a 40-footer which had preceded him to lay guide buoys.

Last year, exhaustion had foiled his first attempt 20 miles short of his goal. That time he began on the Canadian shore and swam southward. This time he had headed north, hoping he'd be helped by lake currents.

Elfers slept during the four-hour return trip to Grand River, a suburb of Painesville across the river from Fairport Harbor where his futile effort began.

Arising briefly for a medical examination, he was pronounced healthy by the doctor who had accompanied him from the start. Then he returned to his bed and, later, his home here.

Atlanta Bank Involved In Lance Loans

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta bank headed by Budget Director Bert Lance deposited more than $4 million in interest-free accounts into a bank which about the same time issued sizable loans to pay Lance's 1974 gubernatorial campaign debts, the Wall Street Journal reported today.

The newspaper said that the Citizens & Southern National Bank in Atlanta last December and January issued loans to a reconstituted "Bert Lance for Governor Committee" for a total of $390,000.

During both months, the National Bank of Georgia, of which Lance is the majority stockholder, substantially increased its interest-free correspondent account at the same Atlanta bank, the newspaper said.

The Wall Street Journal quoted an aide to Lance as saying that the movement of deposits from the National Bank of Georgia to Citizens & Southern was made after recommendations by consultants that NBG's check-clearing needs should be consolidated at the larger bank.

The paper said that Citizen & Southern approved a $140,000 loan to the Lance campaign committee in December 1976 under the signature of Thomas M. Mitchell, who had just become trustee of Lance's personal financial holdings.

It said the National Bank of Georgia account, opened in March 1976, had never had an average balance exceeding $61,000, but in December the average daily balance jumped to $1.7 million.

The paper said on Jan. 21, 1977, Lance personally guaranteed the second loan of $250,000 to the gubernatorial campaign committee, and in the same month the National Bank of Georgia's correspondent account at Citizens & Southern jumped to an average of $4.4 million.

The campaign debts stemmed from Lance's 1974 unsuccessful bid for governor in Georgia. Lance financed his campaign largely from bank loans, a common practice in Georgia politics.

95-Year-Old Man Makes Restitution

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — In 1904, Henry Clark and two other men stole a $6 roll of wire from the city. And it's bothered him ever since.

So Clark, now 95 and living in Houston with his daughter, instructed his grandson to send city officials a check for $200.89 to make restitution with interest for "a wrong he committed."

In a letter to City Hall, C.W. Pounds said his grandfather started a savings account sometime before 1958 with the intent of using the accumulated interest to pay back the city after his death.

However, the letter said, Clark changed his mind and "decided to take care of this at this time." He asked the city's forgiveness.

Rhodesian Prime Minister Does Not Like Peace Plan

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith termed key provisions in the British-American peace plan for Rhodesia "crazy suggestions" today but did not reject the proposal yet.

"It seems to me that the plan is not only ill conceived, it is rushed," Smith told a news conference. He accused Britain of "seeking revenge" for his declaration of independence in 1965.

Atlanta Bank Involved In Lance Loans

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta bank headed by Budget Director Bert Lance deposited more than $4 million in interest-free accounts into a bank which about the same time issued sizable loans to pay Lance's 1974 gubernatorial campaign debts, the Wall Street Journal reported today.

The newspaper said that the Citizens & Southern National Bank in Atlanta last December and January issued loans to a reconstituted "Bert Lance for Governor Committee" for a total of $390,000.

During both months, the National Bank of Georgia, of which Lance is the majority stockholder, substantially increased its interest-free correspondent account at the same Atlanta bank, the newspaper said.

The Wall Street Journal quoted an aide to Lance as saying that the movement of deposits from the National Bank of Georgia to Citizens & Southern was made after recommendations by consultants that NBG's check-clearing needs should be consolidated at the larger bank.

The paper said that Citizen & Southern approved a $140,000 loan to the Lance campaign committee in December 1976 under the signature of Thomas M. Mitchell, who had just become trustee of Lance's personal financial holdings.

It said the National Bank of Georgia account, opened in March 1976, had never had an average balance exceeding $61,000, but in December the average daily balance jumped to $1.7 million.

The paper said on Jan. 21, 1977, Lance personally guaranteed the second loan of $250,000 to the gubernatorial campaign committee, and in the same month the National Bank of Georgia's correspondent account at Citizens & Southern jumped to an average of $4.4 million.

The campaign debts stemmed from Lance's 1974 unsuccessful bid for governor in Georgia. Lance financed his campaign largely from bank loans, a common practice in Georgia politics.

95-Year-Old Man Makes Restitution

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — In 1904, Henry Clark and two other men stole a $6 roll of wire from the city. And it's bothered him ever since.

So Clark, now 95 and living in Houston with his daughter, instructed his grandson to send city officials a check for $200.89 to make restitution with interest for "a wrong he committed."

In a letter to City Hall, C.W. Pounds said his grandfather started a savings account sometime before 1958 with the intent of using the accumulated interest to pay back the city after his death.

However, the letter said, Clark changed his mind and "decided to take care of this at this time." He asked the city's forgiveness.

Rhodesian Prime Minister Does Not Like Peace Plan

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith termed key provisions in the British-American peace plan for Rhodesia "crazy suggestions" today but did not reject the proposal yet.

"It seems to me that the plan is not only ill conceived, it is rushed," Smith told a news conference. He accused Britain of "seeking revenge" for his declaration of independence in 1965.

The 8,000-word blueprint for ending

Rhodesia's five-year guerrilla war and transferring power to the black majority next year was presented to Smith Thursday by Ambassador Andrew Young and British Foreign Secretary David Owen.

Owen, before he and Young flew to London Thursday night, told reporters he was "not full of optimism." But Young predicted "a gradual buildup of appreciation of what is good in this package and what is bad in the current situation."

"I believe when people are face to face with death they come to their senses," the chief American delegate to the United Nations added.

Smith told his news conference he was "no more optimistic" about a settlement emerging from the British-American plan. But he said he would make a thorough study of the document before reaching a final decision.

The provisions of the plan he termed "crazy suggestions" were those calling for a Briton to head an interim government during the transition to black rule and the formation of a new national army which he said would be based on the guerrillas of the Communist-backed Patriotic Front.

"I think it's a very cunning scheme to ensure that the Patriotic Front will be the next government of Rhodesia," he said.

Meanwhile, Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, the leaders of the Patriotic Front, said the proposals "contain aspects which are unacceptable."

Smith made it plain to reporters that he would hold out for a settlement more favorable to the whites.

Strengthened by his landslide victory in a general election Wednesday, Smith said he would pursue his previous plan to negotiate a settlement of his own with black moderates "as a second string to the bow — a wise precaution."

The British-American plan, made public on Thursday but leaked last week, calls for Smith's government to surrender power to an interim government headed by a British resident commissioner, a U.N. peacekeeping force to enforce a ceasefire in the war between the Rhodesian army and the black guerrillas of the Patriotic Front, "free and impartial elections on the basis of universal adult suffrage" and a new constitution "providing for a democratically elected government, the abolition of discrimination, the protection of individual human rights and the independence of the judiciary."

The British government nominated Field Marshal Lord Carver, 62-year-old former chief of the British General Staff, to be the resident commissioner.

British newspapers were not optimistic about the success of the plan. The London Daily Mirror said to ask Smith "to surrender on the very day he has just won all 50 white seats in the Rhodesian parliament is expressing a naive belief in the powers of Father Christmas." The Financial Times said the British-American plan lacked "a crucial ingredient — evidence of acceptability to any of the parties most directly concerned, both white and black."

Industry Turns To Wood For Fuel

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

Wood, which once heated every home, is slowly making a comeback in the boilers of American industry.

Faced with soaring prices for natural gas and oil and tighter restrictions on the use of coal, some companies are eyeing wooden pallets and packing crates, residues from sawmills, and forests' dead and crippled trees as new fuel sources.

Burning wood is older than civilization. It's acquired an old-fashioned image in this century, even though paper and sawmills have run on it for years, drawing energy from their wastes.

Only lately have other industries considered it. And only recently has anyone suggested that forests can be harvested for energy.

Just a few nonwood product companies are burning wood now, but hundreds are considering it, energy consulting firms say.

Those who believe in it say it's only a matter of time — and another cold winter like the last — before more industries catch on.

"What do you think an Ohio subdivision would have paid to have a wood-burning plant last winter?" asks Traverse City, Mich., broadcaster Les Biederman, whose statewide campaign for wood energy has picked the imaginations of several Michigan industries.

"All we have to do is wait a little while as the cost of oil and natural gas goes up. I get to be a little bit more right each day," Biederman says.

Part of wood's attraction is its cost in heavily wooded states such as Michigan, Oregon, Washington, and much of New England. There, wood is half as expensive as coal and two-thirds less expensive than oil.

Clearing forests of dead or unmarketable wood lets quality trees grow faster and better, proponents say, transforming forests from "jungles" to "parks." They claim environmentalists have no objections to the idea, either, as long as some areas are left as is.

Some industries also feel they can depend on wood more than on supplies of other fuels.

Consumers Power Co., which provides electricity to 1.2 million Michigan customers, has concluded enough wood exists in the state to fire a generating plant. It's now pondering whether to build one.

"As you look at the future and find yourself limited to coal and uranium — with all the problems we see in licensing both of those — we thought it only reasonable to look at wood, since Michigan's got a lot of trees," said Consumers President John D. Selby.

Dow-Corning Co. of Midland, Mich., makes silicone products like artificial finger joints. It's seeking federal funds to help build a wood-burning generator "so we're energy independent from other sources," said William D. Betts, an engineering manager. Otherwise, he said, "We'd be fighting the same kinds of battles as everyone else who's using oil or gas."

General Motors Corp., the nation's biggest automaker, says it's still too costly to haul wood from the forests, but boilers at three GM plants are ready to burn it when the price is right.

Last year, GM chopped up wood pallets and scraps, along with other fuels, to run its Pontiac, Mich., truck assembly plant.

In Alexander City, Ala., the Russell

Manufacturing Corp. recently began burning wood at its athletic apparel manufacturing plant and estimates $1 million in savings annually.

Vermont officials are thinking of using wood to heat the state's mental hospital, and small utilities in various states are mixing wood with coal, experimenting and trying to save money.

Although some call it a conservative figure, the U.S. Forest Service estimates the nation's forests contain the equivalent of a billion tons of dry, unmarketable wood.

Burning that waste wood could create the same amount of energy as 10 billion barrels of oil — about twice what the nation used in 1976.

While the wood is relatively inexpensive — $7 to $8 per ton — the problems and extra costs come in handling and hauling it.

Much of the available wood is in wilderness areas and would cost too much to get and transport. Wood chips are also bulkier than other fuels — boosting hauling costs.

"When we're generating it in our own plant, wood's economical," says Donald Van Zile of GM. "But when we must go out and buy it, handle it, load it, unload it, chip it up — so far we haven't been able to make the economics work."

"It sounds so attractive and people say, 'Why aren't you doing it?' But I think they're ignoring the economics."

When things become economic, people do 'em. That's all that's holding us up."

The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration — ERDA — is reviewing grant proposals from six U.S. firms that say they can build a plant and haul 1,000 tons of wood a day to run it economically.

The technology of burning wood is nothing new, says Nello Del Gobbo of ERDA. "What we're trying to prove to people is that we can, in fact, pull out a quantity of wood from the forest at a reasonable price to support a (generating) facility," he says.

Injunction Issued On Sign Ban

FOREST PARK, Ohio (AP) — A Hamilton County Common Pleas Court judge has issued a temporary injunction preventing this suburban community from enforcing sections of its controversial ordinance regulating real estate "for sale" signs.

A prohibition against "sold" signs has been lifted and numerous restrictions on sign placement have been relaxed, pending the outcome of another hearing, under the terms of an order issued Tuesday by Judge Rupert Doan.

Still in force is a size requirement and the power to charge up to $2.50 for a sign permit.

Joseph Trauth, representing local realtors, charged that the current ordinance was "unconstitutional," and that it "restricted the free flow of commercial information."

Forest Park recently revoked a two-year-old ordinance banning "for sale" signs after the U.S. Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a similar law in New Jersey.

Since then, Forest Park officials have revised the law. The current ordinance calls for a permit fee of $2.50 on "for sale" signs and legislates distance from the curb as well as size guidelines.

Real Estate "Sold" signs were forbidden under the current ordinance.

City officials admit that the 1975 ordinance was designed in part to prevent "panic selling" by local homeowners who might sell their homes in haste out of fear of a change in the composition of the neighborhood.

"The city is restricting free speech for the purpose of accomplishing segregated housing," Trauth said.

"The realtors are being prevented from using a key marketing tool."

Racketeering Convictions

Although Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel is the highest ranking public official yet to be convicted under the 1970 Organized Crime Control Act, he is far from the only public official to be found guilty under its provisions. Because the law is unique in several ways, it has rapidly become a favorite tool of federal prosecutors in pursuit of white collar or political corruption cases.

First, the law's provisions are unusually broad. Instead of narrow definitions of specific crimes, the act permits prosecutors to establish a broad pattern of criminal activity—and permits them to introduce a wider variety of evidence into a trial than might be permitted under narrower statutes.

Second, combining mail fraud with racketeering convictions has been made easier by the act. Third, by requiring those convicted under the act to forfeit any illegally obtained property—in addition to providing for heavy penalties and jail sentences—the act carries a heavy financial clout against those convicted.

All of these factors were deliberately included in the 1970 law to make it easier to secure convictions for organized crime activities. Ironically, although some individuals have been convicted of organized crime activities, a larger number of prominent cases have been directed—successfully—at public officials who used their offices for personal gain.

Unfathomable Emotion

By JIM BISHOP

True Love . . . No one can define it. Man has written more poems, books, songs and plays about it than any other subject. The richest man can neither buy it, beg it, or command it. The poorest man may have it all his life.

The selfish can never attain it; the unloving cannot give it. Now and then, it can be seen in others. The immature rediscover it frequently. The lonely crave it. Many mistakenly fall in love with love itself. Some see it as nothing more than a lacy valentine, with hearts entwined.

True love is a fragile bloom, one which dies quickly for lack of nourishment. And yet it often survives death itself, living on in one heart.

The jaundiced jade sees it as sloppy sentimentality. The growing boy is sure it is sex. To an adolescent girl, it's a knight on a white horse. To a dozing old lady, it's a memory. To a divorcee, it's a bitter drink. An old man might see it in an album of yellowed snapshots.

It cannot be captured; it's like trying to box the morning mist. Once held, it cannot be given away. It can be betrayed, and the bodies may remain the same, but the soul is bruised forever.

True love . . . A living thing with no substance. It is endearing, sentimental, cherishing, a permanence of the heart. This is the surface. Far underneath, it is a maelstrom of giving. Love is never taken. The more it is given away, the more the donor is overwhelmed by love.

Often, it comes unbidden. It is an angelic sneak, purloining two hearts and fusing them into one. In these cases, it will induce a euphoric malaise, a dizzying sickness of the senses. Breathing is shallow, food unwanted, sleep impossible.

Seldom does true love come at first sight. A solitary glance of gladdened hearts is flirtatious, not true love. Nor can it be described as possessive, because possession is ownership and no one ever owned true love. Often, it is a sadness, an acknowledgment that, having attained it once, it will someday die in an eternity of starlight.

True love disdains promises. The shepherd begged his love:

"Come live with me, and be my love; And we will all the pleasures prove—That hills and VALLEYS, DALES AND FIELDS,— Woods or steep mountain yields."

He lost her because he was promising, entreating. There is a monumental mutuality in true love. It is a lifelong confetti of giving, not receiving. The lips may be mute, but the heart thrills with woodsyons. In the lassitude of the sable night, he murmurs: "Beyond thine eyes I cannot see."

True love . . .

Grab it. Hold it. Cherish it. Prove it. It is given to few to understand it, to appreciate it. Rarer too are those who once held it firm in their hands, and watched it die without knowing they had the riches of Croesus.

Tragically, once gone it is impossible to forget. It lives a haunting life alone, aflame with regret. In an old Irish melody, the balladeer told a truth:

NEW YORK (AP)—In the name of competition, says its critics, the Securities and Exchange Commission is seeking to establish a monopoly in the securities industry's record-keeping or settlement-clearance function.

"In my long experience as a state and federal legislator I can remember no other instance where competition was fostered by creating a monopoly," says Rep. John Moss, D-Calif. The concept, he says, is "somewhat bizarre."

The Justice Department has expressed doubts about the plan. And Bradford National Corp., which handles paperwork functions for the over-the-counter market and Pacific Stock Exchange, has sued to prevent the monopoly.

If put into practice, says Peter Del Col, chairman of Bradford, it would soon muscle his company, which designs, installs and operates sophisticated computerized record-keeping systems, out of stock clearance and settlement.

His company's business, he continues, then would go almost wholly to the National Securities Clearing Corp., created by combining the clearing operations of the New York and American stock exchanges and the National Association of Securities Dealers.

That, says Del Col, would mean a noncompetitive, government regulated monopoly that would fix rates for most transactions and force competing clearing associations, and in the end regional exchanges, out of business.

"It means," said another Bradford spokesman, "that New York brokers, with the help of the SEC, have already seized control of an emerging national securities market by capturing its underlying transaction processes."

Del Col says this was never the intention of Congress in passing the Securities Act Amendments of 1975. Those amendments, he and others point out angrily and with frustration, were intended to bring competition to the industry.

"The theory of the SEC is that they'll form a monopoly and watch it closely," says Del Col. But, he continues, the proliferating costs of regulation can produce skyrocketing government expenditures and ruin innovation.

Almost all innovations in clearing and settlements during the past 20 years have come from clearing corporations not affiliated with the American or New York exchanges, Del Col observes. That's the nature of competition, he says.

"It's what I call competitive free enterprise," he says. "I start from the basic premise that this country is built on competition and that it runs better that way than with monopoly."

What the SEC wants, he says, "is like having competition in the auto industry but a monopoly in tires. The cars will run on those tires, but you'll never have improvements in them."

Del Col says it isn't only his company, which he says is "the nation's largest company providing computer-clerical processing and record-keeping services to financial institutions, industry and government," that is endangered.

A monopoly, he says, could serve to stifle regional competition, such as from the Pacific Stock Exchange and the Midwest Exchange, the presidents of which have been critical of the power exercised by the New York-based institutions.

Del Col maintains that a system of competitive clearing and settling organizations not only would result in more efficiency and lower costs, but that it could be implemented sooner than the SEC-endorsed system.

The NSCC has estimated it would need up to two years to consolidate its systems into one national clearance and settlement organization. Del Col says a competitive system of interfacing agencies could be achieved in six to nine months.

Moss, chairman of the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, has written Harold Williams, SEC chairman that "a number of other options are open to the Commission which are much more in tune with the Congressional charge of fostering competition and competing service entities."

Del Col, whose company has delayed through court action any implementation of the NSCC for the time being, claims his requests to the SEC to rethink its decision were left unanswered until recently.

Within recent days he says he received a notification from Williams, who took office this spring, that he could meet with the full commission from 10 to 11 a.m. on September 29.

"Mark it on your calendar," says a determined Del Col. "The laws says this (monopoly) shouldn't be, Congress says so, the Justice Department says so, I say so."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My daughter has some fuzzy hair around the upper lip and the chin. She is 16. She says a friend of hers has had "mild X-ray" treatment for a similar problem. Shall I explore this?

—Mrs. H. B., Ind.

Dear Mrs. B.:

I must state emphatically that there is no such thing as "mild X-rays." All X-rays used for treatment or diagnosis are given in carefully calculated doses to be sure that they are safe.

It is many years since I have heard of the use of X-rays, for the removal of unwanted, excess hair. At the beginning of the century, when the knowledge of X-rays was not as complete as it is today, this form of treatment was used. It took more than 25 years for its delayed effects to become apparent. Many cancers of the skin were traced to this rash, indiscriminate use of X-rays.

I received a letter from a mother who said that her child had been on the critical list after having swallowed 30 tablets of a "relatively safe drug."

I wonder why such accidents still occur despite all of the health campaigns that are aimed at the prevention of accidental poisoning. More than half of these poisonings occur in children under five.

Aspirin is certainly one of the most valuable drugs in use today. Yet aspirin is one of the sources of great danger to the prying, curious youngster.

It occurs to me that manufacturers of medicines and parents themselves may be inadvertently playing a role in the massive threat to a child's health. Manufacturers continue to flavor medicines to disguise their flavor is understandable, but parents must not mislead their children into believing that medicines are candy. The child who is coaxed into believing he is taking candy can ultimately get the idea that any medicine is candy. Here is where we all get into trouble.

Any "safe" drug, laxative, vitamin or antibiotic, when taken in large quantities by the candy-seeking child, can be hazardous.

Dispensers of drugs have created many excellent, safe containers that defy the strength or ingenuity of the child. (As a matter of fact, they often defy the strength and ingenuity of the adult!)

I urge all readers to spend a few moments and make a careful survey of all medications that might be within reach of children. You will be amazed at how much more accessible they are than you believed. These few moments could save the life of your child.

Commissions For Private Police Halted By Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police Chief Myron Leistler has called a halt to the issuance of city police commissions for private policemen and security guards.

The halt was called after several incidents involving the use of firearms and their improper concealment by private police and security guards, the Cincinnati police chief said.

A committee has been named to study the problem and recommend future courses of action.

Leistler said Ohio House Bill 740, currently under consideration, would spell out conditions under which a private policeman may carry a firearm.

"We have notified all private police agencies to tell their employees about the restrictions pertaining to carrying concealed firearms," Leistler said. "These agencies are to report back to me by Sept. 15."

"I have seen very little enforcement activity or arrests on the part of private police and security guards which would justify the carrying of firearms."

"The few arrests that are made are in big department stores or food chains."

The police chief cited the case of a security guard who, when stopped by police in another community, falsely told them his city commission gave him the right to carry a concealed firearm.

"All a city commission ever did was give the holder the arrest rights of a Cincinnati policeman in the place of business where he was employed," Leistler said. "Without one, he will still have citizen's arrest power."

"Neither it nor a state license gave him any right to carry a concealed weapon however."

The city will renew existing commissions, but the chief said the renewals will carry a notation that the commission does not authorize the holder to carry a concealed firearm.

One officer of a local security firm praised Leistler's move as a much-needed step in better weapons control.

The police chief's action hopefully will reduce the number of private police carrying weapons unnecessarily, said Joe Cohen, operations director for Allied Securities Inc.

Safety Plus

NEW YORK (AP)—The safest form of public conveyance is not the train, bus, taxi or airplane, but the taken-for-granted elevator or escalator, according to the latest survey by a manufacturer of the up-and-down equipment.

Although such traffic in the United States rose by about 2 per cent last year, when some 360,000 elevators and escalators carried 50 billion passengers, a study by Otis Elevator discloses a total of 1,427 accidents reported, compared to 1,436 for 1975.

How does this compare with other modes of transportation? The National Safety Council estimates that in 1975 there were 16.5 million motor vehicle accidents which caused death, disabling injury or damage to property. In 1976, these accidents rose to 16.8 million.

A Page Of Opinion

Racketeering Convictions

Although Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel is the highest ranking public official yet to be convicted under the 1970 Organized Crime Control Act, he is far from the only public official to be found guilty under its provisions. Because the law is unique in several ways, it has rapidly become a favorite tool of federal prosecutors in pursuit of white collar or political corruption cases.

First, the law's provisions are unusually broad. Instead of narrow definitions of specific crimes, the act permits prosecutors to establish a broad pattern of criminal activity—and permits them to introduce a wider variety of evidence into a trial than might be permitted under narrower statutes.

Second, combining mail fraud with racketeering convictions has been made easier by the act. Third, by requiring those convicted under the act to forfeit any illegally obtained property—in addition to providing for heavy penalties and jail sentences—the act carries a heavy financial clout against those convicted.

All of these factors were deliberately included in the 1970 law to make it easier to secure convictions for organized crime activities. Ironically, although some individuals have been convicted of organized crime activities, a larger number of prominent cases have been directed—successfully—at public officials who used their offices for personal gain.

Unfathomable Emotion

True Love ... No one can define it. Man has written more poems, books, songs and plays about it than any other subject. The richest man can neither buy it, beg it, or command it. The poorest man may have it all his life.

The selfish can never attain it; the unloving cannot give it. Now and then, it can be seen in others. The immature rediscover it frequently. The lonely crave it. Many mistakenly fall in love with love itself. Some see it as nothing more than a lacy valentine, with hearts entwined.

True love is a fragile bloom, one which dies quickly for lack of nourishment. And yet it often survives death itself, living on in one heart.

The jaundiced jade sees it as sloppy sentimentality. The growing boy is sure it is sex. To an adolescent girl, it's a knight on a white horse. To a dozing old lady, it's a memory. To a divorcee, it's a bitter drink. An old man might see it in an album of yellowed snapshots.

One can still love in the ruins of love. The cold stones solace a tired heart. Some seek the pain of saffron love letters. The eyes swim in memories, but the dead remain dead.

How does anyone—ambitious young man, lovely lady—know when true love becomes the third person? They will know at once, because its first appearance is frightening. There is a sensation of being ensnared, of drowning in a warm sea, a feeling of being swept away on a windless plain. Most of all, the victims are rendered helpless.

They'll Do It Every Time

See Little Interest In Bulk Purchases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spot check around Ohio indicates grocery store customers have only nominal interest in bulk purchases for lower prices at their favorite supermarkets.

Several areas have supermarkets catering to bulk buyers, and they do a brisk business. But the average weekly shopper shows little inclination toward a 60-cent to a dollar savings for canned peaches or macaroni and cheese dinners by the case.

Some supermarkets offer discounts

on three or more pounds of hamburger but an Athens store manager said customers complained about four pounds or more ground beef at a price saving being unfair to small families that don't use that much between shopping trips.

Lower prices on produce, namely potatoes and tomatoes, drove prices down for the third consecutive month in the Ohio Associated Press Marketbasket survey. The overall cost of 16 standard grocery items dropped 3.29 per cent between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1. It was a welcome respite for shoppers from the previous nine consecutive months of rising prices.

Average cost of all items at 15 reporting cities was $22.92 at the end of August, compared to $23.70 at the end of July. By comparison, the average cost of the items on Sept. 1, 1976, was $19.05, and two years ago it was $17.67.

A three-pound can of name brand coffee, which has doubled in price since June 1, 1976, was among eight items on the list showing a decline in price. Average cost of coffee among reporting cities was $9.79, down 2.9 per cent over the month.

Price averages from other cities and the per cent of decline from 1st month were: Massillon $19.81, down 4.6 per cent; Salem, $21.54, down 5.7 per cent; Toledo, $22.15, down 1.4 per cent; Findlay, $23.38, down 4.6 per cent; Conneaut, $23.50, down 4 per cent; Fremont, $23.64, down 6 per cent; Athens, $23.87, down 6.3 per cent; Chillicothe, $24.05, down 4 per cent; Van Wert, $24.19, down 6.7 per cent, and Portsmouth, $24.74, down 4.4 per cent.

Newlyweds Tussle Over Late-Night TV

DEAR ABBY: Ron is 21 and I am 19. We're newlyweds, and our problem is the TV in our bedroom. Ron likes to lie in bed and watch TV until midnight every night, and some nights he watches it until 1 a.m.

I want to turn off the TV at 11 p.m. because I have to get up at 7 a.m. for work, and if I don't get eight hours of sleep, I am very crabby the next morning. Ron gets up at 7 a.m., too, but he says he doesn't need as much sleep as I do.

Anyway, I can't fall asleep while the TV is on, and Ron refuses to turn it off at 11.

How can this problem be solved? Don't suggest earplugs because I've tried them, and they bother my ears.

CRABBY

DEAR CRABBY: You have two choices. Separate rooms, or a 50-50 compromise. (Turn the TV off at 11 every OTHER night.) But remember, although a compromise makes a good umbrella, it's a poor roof.

DEAR ABBY: I work for a large corporation and for the last few weeks, my boss has been acting very secretive. I walked into his office yesterday, and he quickly slammed his desk drawer shut. Then I noticed smoke coming out of the drawer, but I didn't say anything.

He supposedly stopped smoking three months ago, but I know he's at it again because I've seen him in the hall with a cigarette in his hand. He tried to hide it, but I'm sure he knows that I saw him.

I'm afraid he might try to ditch another burning cigarette in his desk drawer, forget about it and burn up the building.

Don't you think he's acting very immature for a 55-year-old executive? Should I write him an anonymous note and ask him who he thinks he's fooling?

ON TO HIM

DEAR ON: No. Anonymous notes are also immature. But do tell him that in the interest of safety for others, he should refrain from placing lighted cigarettes in the drawer.

DEAR ABBY: Is marriage contagious? It seems to be an epidemic around here. I'm 21, male and single, and one by one, all my friends are getting married.

My first love went away to college, and during the first quarter, she fell in love with a theology major, and they decided to get married. Now she's pregnant, and I don't know whether to cuss or pray.

Another old girlfriend is soon to marry the drummer of a rock group. Other good friends, male and female, are headed in that direction.

Why would anyone want to end the fun of being young and footloose by getting hitched so soon? All of them are under 21. Is marriage a contagious disease? I hope not.

SINGLE IN SEATTLE

DEAR SINGLE: Marriage in a sense is "contagious" — like divorce, shaking up, or growing a beard; some people get the courage to do it because their friends have made the move.

But you're safe. Anyone who suspects that marriage is a "disease" is probably immune.

See Little Interest In Bulk Purchases

The Circleville Herald, Friday September 2, 1977

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spot check around Ohio indicates grocery store customers have only nominal interest in bulk purchases for lower prices at their favorite supermarkets.

Several areas have supermarkets catering to bulk buyers, and they do a brisk business. But the average weekly shopper shows little inclination toward a 60-cent to a dollar savings for canned peaches or macaroni and cheese dinners by the case.

Some supermarkets offer discounts

on three or more pounds of hamburger but an Athens store manager said customers complained about four pounds or more ground beef at a price saving being unfair to small families that don't use that much between shopping trips.

Lower prices on produce, namely potatoes and tomatoes, drove prices down for the third consecutive month in the Ohio Associated Press Marketbasket survey. The overall cost of 16 standard grocery items dropped 3.29 per cent between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1. It was a welcome respite for shoppers from the previous nine consecutive months of rising prices.

Average cost of all items at 15 reporting cities was $22.92 at the end of August, compared to $23.70 at the end of July. By comparison, the average cost of the items on Sept. 1, 1976, was $19.05, and two years ago it was $17.67.

A three-pound can of name brand coffee, which has doubled in price since June 1, 1976, was among eight items on the list showing a decline in price. Average cost of coffee among reporting cities was $9.79, down 2.9 per cent over the month.

Ten pounds of white potatoes dropped 35 per cent at the end of August, following a 19 per cent drop the previous month as the summer supply reached supermarkets in force. Prices ranged from 63 cents at Chillicothe to $1.44 at Portsmouth and the average worked out to 96 cents.

Tomatoes by the pound dropped 20 per cent, to 55 cents, from the previous month while lettuce was up 20 per cent to 53 cents per head.

Medium sized white grade A eggs by the dozen increased 6.6 per cent, to 64 cents and five pounds of granulated sugar declined 3 per cent to 95 cents on average.

Other items with lower average prices from the previous month were hamburger by the pound, 1.2 per cent at 80 cents; whole frying chicken per pound, 1.5 per cent at 62 cents; center cut pork chops per pound, 1.1 per cent at $1.76; a 49-ounce box of name brand detergent, 2.1 per cent at $1.42.

Price averages went up on chuck roast by the pound, 2 per cent to $1.02; a 14 1/2 ounce pack of chocolate chip cookies, 1 per cent at 96 cents, and a 12-ounce pack of frozen orange juice, 4 per cent at 78 cents.

No change was reported in average cost of a pound of stick margarine at 58 cents, a 12-ounce jar of peanut butter at 75 cents, and a half-gallon of whole milk at 78 cents.

Twelve cities reported lower prices, and three higher prices, on the 16 items than the previous month. They ranged from Canton, where the average cost of $19.27 was 7.8 per cent below a month ago, to Cincinnati, where the total of $24.83, was down 2.8 per cent over the month.

Higher price averages were reported at Cleveland where the $22.83 was up 3.7 per cent; Columbus with $23.65, up 2.6 per cent, and Youngstown with an average of $22.40, up 2.4 per cent from Aug. 1.

Price averages from other cities and the per cent of decline from 1st month were: Massillon $19.81, down 4.6 per cent; Salem, $21.54, down 5.7 per cent; Toledo, $22.15, down 1.4 per cent; Findlay, $23.38, down 4.6 per cent; Conneaut, $23.50, down .4 per cent; Fremont, $23.64, down 6 per cent; Athens, $23.87, down 6.3 per cent; Chillicothe, $24.05, down .4 per cent; Van Wert, $24.19, down 6.7 per cent, and Portsmouth, $24.74, down 4.4 per cent.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Newlyweds Tussle Over Late-Night TV

DEAR ABBY: Ron is 21 and I am 19. We're newlyweds, and our problem is the TV in our bedroom. Ron likes to lie in bed and watch TV until midnight every night, and some nights he watches it until 1 a.m.

I want to turn off the TV at 11 p.m. because I have to get up at 7 a.m. for work, and if I don't get eight hours of sleep, I am very crabby the next morning. Ron gets up at 7 a.m., too, but he says he doesn't need as much sleep as I do.

Anyway, I can't fall asleep while the TV is on, and Ron refuses to turn it off at 11.

How can this problem be solved? Don't suggest earplugs because I've tried them, and they bother my ears.

CRABBY
DEAR CRABBY: You have two choices. Separate rooms, or a 50-50 compromise. (Turn the TV off at 11 every OTHER night.) But remember, although a compromise makes a good umbrella, it's a poor roof.

DEAR ABBY: I work for a large corporation and for the last few weeks, my boss has been acting very secretive. I walked into his office yesterday, and he quickly slammed his desk drawer shut. Then I noticed smoke coming out of the drawer, but I didn't say anything.

He supposedly stopped smoking three months ago, but I know he's at it again because I've seen him in the hall with a cigarette in his hand. He tried to hide it, but I'm sure he knows that I saw him.

On Books And Activities At The Library

As you start looking ahead to Fall and new activities, don't forget to include regular visits to the Pickaway County District Public Library. We will be starting our winter hours on September 12. We will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily Monday through Thursday. Friday and Saturday closing will remain 5 p.m.

We will be observing the Labor Day holiday on September 5. We'll be open for business as usual on Tuesday. We're looking forward to some exciting activities this Fall so watch for announcements.

Non-fiction readers have a bonanza this week! Biography is one of the most fascinating areas in non-fiction and these new ones sound like winners.

When you think of winners, you think of sports and when you think of sports, you have to think of Babe Didrikson. No one has even come close to attaining the individual dominance she held over so many sports. "Whatta-Gal" by William Johnson is the exciting story of Babe.

Robert Lacey conveys a picture of the historical events and the individuals so much a part of those events in his new book "Majesty." It's the portrayal of Elizabeth II and the House of Windsor, the grandest surviving monarchy in the world.

For the Mark Twain fans, "Mark Twain Himself" is a beautiful pictorial biography of one of America's most versatile personalities. Milton Meltzer has combined the hundreds of photos with the matchless words of the great writer.

It's a happy story. It's a sad story. "The Orchard Children" by Rachel Maddux is the moving true story of foster parents fighting to keep their children. You'll share in the love of that family and the tears of it as it tries to cope with the law.

prompted the writing of "The Tree Farm" by Robert Treuer. In beautifully etched vignettes, the author's autobiographical book describes the rebirth of a forest and a family.

"Irving Stone's Jack London" by Irving Stone is a biography with a difference. Not only does the reader enjoy an authentic biography of Jack London but also a carefully chosen selection of the subject's work.

"The Book Of Lists" by the authors of THE PEOPLES' ALMANAC is exactly that. Lists, lists and more lists. The stories behind the lists are what make it a fascinating and fun book.

In a more serious vein is "The Camera Never Blinks" by Dan Rather. It is the adventure of a TV journalist as he tells the behind-the-scenes stories of recent history's stormiest events. He also offers his views on many of the problems facing modern journalism.

In his new book, "It Didn't Start With Watergate", Victor Lasky argues that Watergate was little more than a media event. Bound to be controversial, it does present a different view with some food for thought.

Probably the most important event of WW II was the flight of Enola Gay, the B-29 carrying the first A-bomb. Thomas Gordon now writes of the event from both sides. "Enola Gay" is a calm and objective approach to a grim historical event.

"The Newscasters" by Ron Powers is a look at the changes being pumped into the evening news programs. It discusses how the news business is rapidly becoming show business and presents the views of many of the big names in newscasting.

The coastwatchers of the Solomons were a heroic and dedicated group of people during WW II. Walter Lord writes of them and their adventures in "Lonely Vigil."

A new Corrie ten Boom book, "He Cares, He Comforts" was written to give spiritual help to those suffering an illness or an emotional hurt.

A new novel to be mentioned is "Palazzo" by Hans Habe. By introducing a grand old marble ancestral home that needs refurbishing and an old dowager out of funds, the author weaves a plot that holds interest. He also gives the reader a magnificent view of Venice and its people while he develops this plot.

Add some westerns, a mystery and science fiction to make this a good week to visit the public library.

ONF Certified As

Tax Deductible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The recently created Ohio Newspapers Foundation has been certified as a tax deductible organization by the Internal Revenue Service.

The ONF, formed by members of the Ohio Newspaper Association to carry out educational, training and research projects for the betterment of Ohio newspapers, is currently engaged in a fund-raising program.

"If a free society and nation depend upon good education, an ability to read and comprehend, and being well-informed, it is obvious that the primary purpose of newspapers also serves the primary purpose of education..." said Alex Machaskee, ONF president and assistant publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEW YORK (AP) — He prized individual conscience and the rights of varied denominations, but never picked any one of them to join. "Don't knock any religion," he would say. "We don't know that they're wrong."

One night, he sat up unusually late reading the Bible which he studied regularly. Next day, at age 75, big, taciturn Jim Merrell, a crack straw boss of railroad bridge-building crews in Alabama for 42 years, died of a heart attack.

His daughter, Pattie, put in a long-distance telephone call to Fort Lee, Va. In tears, she told her brother, then in the Army, "I've got some bad news."

"I know," he said. He had sensed it without being told.

That was in 1962. The son, Jesse H. Merrell, now 38, who has since become head of Merrell Enterprises of Washington, a professional writing service, and who in honor of his father set up the Jim Merrell Religious Liberty Memorial awards of $1,000 each annually for the best news article and cartoon on religious liberty, says of that day in 1962:

"Riding home on the train that night from Petersburg, Va., to Birmingham, Ala., (near the family's home in Shelby, Ala.) was the longest night of my life. All my unpardonable conduct toward Daddy was graphically painted before me on a broad panorama of bitterly painful guilt."

The recollections are part of a short talk Merrell gives frequently to church by some of the youth and young adults of the church.

and civic groups about his father — and about an unspoken word the son wishes he had spoken — "love."

In the talk, he relates his father's hard-working life as a bridge-builder, his scanty education, yet quiet wisdom, tolerant faith and timber-laying skill, his rearing in a draughty log cabin on a Shelby County, Ala., farm homesteaded by his grandfather in early U.S. history.

"Times were tough then," the son relates of his father's upbringing. "His father was hard on him and the other children. When they misbehaved, he whipped them. Hard at times. It turned Daddy against severe punishment."

"I never remember him whipping me. But it had the wrong effect on me. When I saw I could get away with it, I started sassing. And with a little more education than he had, I presumed I was ever so much smarter than he. I told him all the mistakes of his life, that I'd never do this, never do that."

"He responded to my overbearing arrogance with forbearing patience. 'You don't know what you'll do,' he said. 'Wait till you see what you do.' I went into the Army. Still a know-it-all."

Then came that telephone call, and the long train ride home. "I didn't sleep a wink all night. I was numb with chilling remorse. But I couldn't tell Daddy. It was too late."

"It was not too late to learn, though. In the years since he died, I've done everything I told Daddy I wouldn't do. His prophetic words still painfully ring in my ears: 'You don't know what you'll do. Wait till you see ...' "

"I've waited. And I've seen. The greatest tragedy of my life is that I never got a chance to tell Daddy that I loved him. That he was right about so many things.

"Now when I visit my family in Shelby, Ala., the first place I stop — no matter if it's midnight — is the cemetery. I stand at the foot of Daddy's grave and say: 'You were right. Now I can see.' "

"But he can't hear me. If your father can still hear you, I urge you to hurry — don't walk, run — and tell him what I never got a chance to tell my father. Because if you wait, you may lose your chance, too."

Wellston Man Named To Historical Society

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Thursday appointed Jeremiah G. Morrow of Wellston to a three-year term on the board of trustees of the Ohio Historical Society. Morrow's appointment is an additional membership in an expansion of the board.

8 The Circleville Herald, Friday September 2, 1977 Court Enters Church Battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The senior warden of St. Paul's Episcopal Church has gone to court to halt a vote Sunday on separating the parish from the national church over the issue of women priests.

Father G. Wayne Craig, rector of the 300-member congregation since 1971, said Thursday he was appalled at court interference with church business. He said he has hired an attorney and will seek to have the order lifted.

Judge Jay Flowers of Franklin County Common Pleas Court issued the temporary order on a complaint by Dwight L. Fullerton, senior warden, on behalf of himself and 103 other church members who voted earlier against separating from the national church. It ordered Father Craig to cancel Sunday's meeting for a second vote on removing the 135-year-old parish from the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.

Fullerton's complaint said calling the second meeting is "harassment of the members who voted against the resolutions and is unfair, unreasonable and improper."

A first vote on the question Aug. 7, ended in a 104-104 tie. Father Craig, who favors the separation because the national church has voted to ordain women as priests, called the second meeting.

"I am just flabbergasted," said Father Craig. "In my opinion, Judge Flowers has totally eliminated our right to peaceable assembly."

Flowers' order is for 14 days unless extended. He said he acted as assignment judge and that another judge would hear further proceedings. Father Craig said absentee ballots were counted in the first vote but the lay board since discovered that church bylaws adopted in 1883 forbid absentee or proxy votes.

"One thing that leaves me astonished," Father Craig said, "is that any judge in this country would sign a restraining order like this without giving us some opportunity to be heard. Secondly, this judge is not only siding with liberals of the church in this matter but is interfering with affairs of a church."

We know an airline pilot who used to make model planes. Yes, and we know a doctor who was "first aid man" in his scout troop. And we know an engineer who used to build the best bridges ever built with damp sand at the seashore.

There isn't any important role in life that doesn't have to be rehearsed before the curtain goes up!

Now in every field there are men and women whose Christian character is admired, respected and relied upon by all who know them. You can be sure they didn't suddenly wake up one morning with that kind of personal "nobility." Where then did it come from? How did they acquire it?

Through experience — just as the engineer, the doctor and the pilot acquired their "feeling" for the vocation they would one day pursue!

The church at the corner can't manufacture noble Christian souls. But it can go a long way toward developing in you and me — and in our youngsters — a sense of the potential with which God has endowed us.

Flowers Follows Dad's Advice

NEW YORK (AP) — He prized individual conscience and the rights of varied denominations, but never picked any one of them to join. "Don't knock any religion," he would say. "We don't know that they're wrong."

One night, he sat up unusually late reading the Bible which he studied regularly. Next day, at age 75, big, taciturn Jim Merrell, a crack straw boss of railroad bridge-building crews in Alabama for 42 years, died of a heart attack.

His daughter, Pattie, put in a long-distance telephone call to Fort Lee, Va. In tears, she told her brother, then in the Army, "I've got some bad news."

"I know," he said. He had sensed it without being told.

That was in 1962. The son, Jesse H. Merrell, now 38, who has since become head of Merrell Enterprises of Washington, a professional writing service, and who in honor of his father set up the Jim Merrell Religious Liberty Memorial awards of $1,000 each annually for the best news article and cartoon on religious liberty, says of that day in 1962:

"Riding home on the train that night from Petersburg, Va., to Birmingham, Ala., (near the family's home in Shelby, Ala.) was the longest night of my life. All my unpardonable conduct toward Daddy was graphically painted before me on a broad panorama of bitterly painful guilt."

The recollections are part of a short talk Merrell gives frequently to church

by some of the youth and young adults of the church.

and civic groups about his father — and about an unspoken word the son wishes he had spoken — "love."

In the talk, he relates his father's hard-working life as a bridge-builder, his scanty education, yet quiet wisdom, tolerant faith and timber-laying skill, his rearing in a draughty log cabin on a Shelby County, Ala., farm homesteaded by his grandfather in early U.S. history.

"Times were tough then," the son relates of his father's upbringing. "His father was hard on him and the other children. When they misbehaved, he whipped them. Hard at times. It turned Daddy against severe punishment."

"I never remember him whipping me. But it had the wrong effect on me. When I saw I could get away with it, I started sassing. And with a little more education than he had, I presumed I was ever so much smarter than he. I told him all the mistakes of his life, that I'd never do this, never do that."

"He responded to my overbearing arrogance with forbearing patience. 'You don't know what you'll do,' he said. 'Wait till you see what you do.' I went into the Army. Still a know-it-all."

Then came that telephone call, and the long train ride home. "I didn't sleep a wink all night. I was numb with chilling remorse. But I couldn't tell Daddy. It was too late."

"It was not too late to learn, though. In the years since he died, I've done everything I told Daddy I wouldn't do. His prophetic words still painfully ring in my ears: 'You don't know what you'll do. Wait till you see ...'" greatest tragedy of my life is that I never got a chance to tell Daddy that I loved him. That he was right about so many things."

"I've waited. And I've seen. The

"Now when I visit my family in Shelby, Ala., the first place I stop — no matter if it's midnight — is the cemetery. I stand at the foot of Daddy's grave and say: 'You were right. Now I can see.'"

"But he can't hear me. If your father can still hear you, I urge you to hurry — don't walk, run — and tell him what I never got a chance to tell my father. Because if you wait, you may lose your chance, too."

Wellston Man Named To Historical Society

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Thursday appointed Jeremiah G. Morrow of Wellston to a three-year term on the board of trustees of the Ohio Historical Society.

Morrow's appointment is an additional membership in an expansion of the board.

Court Enters Church Battle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The senior warden of St. Paul's Episcopal Church has gone to court to halt a vote Sunday on separating the parish from the national church over the issue of women priests.

Father G. Wayne Craig, rector of the 300-member congregation since 1971, said Thursday he was appalled at court interference with church business. He said he has hired an attorney and will seek to have the order lifted.

Judge Jay Flowers of Franklin County Common Pleas Court issued the temporary order on a complaint by Dwight L. Fullerton, senior warden, on behalf of himself and 103 other church members who voted earlier against separating from the national church. It ordered Father Craig to cancel Sunday's meeting for a second vote on removing the 135-year-old parish from the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.

Fullerton's complaint said calling the second meeting is "harassment of the members who voted against the resolutions and is unfair, unreasonable and improper." A first vote on the question Aug. 7, ended in a 104-104 tie. Father Craig, who favors the separation because the national church has voted to ordain women as priests, called the second meeting.

"I am just flabbergasted," said Father Craig. "In my opinion, Judge Flowers has totally eliminated our right to peaceable assembly."

Flowers' order is for 14 days unless extended. He said he acted as assignment judge and that another judge would hear further proceedings.

Father Craig said absentee ballots were counted in the first vote but the lay board since discovered that church bylaws adopted in 1883 forbid absentee or proxy votes.

"One thing that leaves me astonished," Father Craig said, "is that any judge in this country would sign a restraining order like this without giving us some opportunity to be heard. Secondly, this judge is not only siding with liberals of the church in this matter but is interfering with affairs of a church."

We know an airline pilot who used to make model planes. Yes, and we know a doctor who was "first aid man" in his scout troop. And we know an engineer who used to build the best bridges ever built with damp sand at the seashore.

There isn't any important role in life that doesn't have to be rehearsed before the curtain goes up!

Now in every field there are men and women whose Christian character is admired, respected and relied upon by all who know them. You can be sure they didn't suddenly wake up one morning with that kind of personal "nobility." Where then did it come from? How did they acquire it?

Through experience — just as the engineer, the doctor and the pilot acquired their "feeling" for the vocation they would one day pursue!

The church at the corner can't manufacture noble Christian souls. But it can go a long way toward developing in you and me — and in our youngsters — a sense of the potential with which God has endowed us.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Automobile Club for Circleville Herald.

The Buckeye Furnace State Memorial, which is outside of Jackson, Ohio, is a monument to Ohio's 19th century iron ore industry. This is part of the famous Hanging Rock Iron Region, and Buckeye Furnace was one of forty-six charcoal-fired stacks that gave the area a reputation as one of the world's leading pig iron producers. The furnace has been restored and the charging house, casting house, iron-master's home, company store and the blacksmith's shop, are all part of the complex that has been reconstructed as it was when the iron ore industry was at its peak.

In the wooded area surrounding the furnace, nature trails wind through the

Beverly Hills Suits Total Over $1 Billion

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Attorneys for victims of the Beverly Hills fire who have filed suits totaling more than $1 billion have begun taking depositions in preparation for litigation.

U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin on Thursday gave lawyers permission to begin taking depositions. However, Rubin's order said the depositions must be completed within 90 days.

Suits totaling more than $1 billion have been filed in connection with the May 28 fire in which 164 persons died.

Stanley Chesley, one of eight attorneys selected by the court to represent all the victims and their heirs, said depositions would begin with the club owners, the Schilling family, employees, utility officials, contractors and Southgate, Kenton County and Kentucky state officials and employees.

"All persons directly assigned the duty of inspecting the Beverly Hills for compliance with fire and building codes on behalf of the Commonwealth, all subsidiaries of the City of Southgate in the past seven years," plus insurance investigators and officials, are to be included in the questioning, Chesley said.

Chesley said the plaintiffs planned to attack the sovereignty claimed by the state and local governments claiming immunity from suit.

"It's archaic and has been abolished by 14 states in recent years," said Chesley.

Ohio Realtors Convention Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 2,000 Ohio realtors are expected to attend the 68th annual convention of the Ohio Association of Realtors Sept. 18-21 in Cleveland.

Election of association offices for 1978 will highlight the four-day meeting.

The association is the largest business-oriented trade organization in Ohio with over 41,000 members representing more than four million home and property owners.

grounds and are dotted with picnic sites.

The rock carvings of Leo Petroglyph State Memorial are relics from the past. These well-preserved figures, forty in all, were cut into the sandstone by prehistoric Indians, to represent animal, human and other living forms.

Enhancing the nature trails through the area, explanatory plaques identify the various botanical and geological features of the site.

A mini-vacation into Ohio's hill country ought to include visits to the Bob Evans Farm in Rio Grande and to the Our House State Memorial in Gallipolis.

The 1100-acre Homestead Farm welcomes visitors to browse the farm, which is a showplace for any number of very special attractions, like the Spanish Barb Mustang horses, an almost extinct species that Bob Evans brought to the farm to preserve. Others are a cabin that has been relocated here which once belonged to a freed slave, and Wickline Rifle Cabin, a recreation of the cabin in which George Wickline designed his famous firearm. There is also a Welsh Windmill, actually imported from the mother country of the early settlers of the area.

Various small wildlife and domestic animals make up deer park, and if you are lucky, while you are out horseback riding, you may spot some of the wild deer which roam the property as well.

In the farm museum many old and antique farm tools remind visitors of what farming was like in the 19th century. On summer weekends, various locals bring back those old days and old skills in the Craft Barn.

The farm has hiking trails, backpacking trails with primitive camping facilities and canoe rentals available on Raccoon Creek, which flows right through the farm. On Tuesday and Thursday night, you can arrange to take a horseback trip and spend an overnight around the campfire.

Our House also dates back to the 19th century. Completely restored with its bared grill and all, the Ohio River Tavern once entertained the French General Lafayette. The Tavern is furnished entirely with pieces from the period.

Before leaving the region, trip up to the summit of Fortification Hill in Gallipolis' Mound Cemetery. Fortification Hill has public picnic facilities and affords a splendid view of the Ohio River Valley and the hills of West Virginia.

Set out for your southeastern Ohio vacation from Circleville, south on U.S. 23 to U.S. 35; south on U.S. 35 to Jackson.

Willie's Dillies

By A BENCHWARMER

By now everyone is aware of the fact that football is charging headlong toward the start of the 1977 season. And a glance at the sports pages will tell you that scribes far and wide are gleaming any kind of information that they can put into print about the grid war ahead. In our own little corner of the sports world, we have been expounding on the area high schools, and never for a minute think that we are losing interest in them.

But today I would like to say a few words about another level of football, the collegiate competition.

There are several notions conjured up in a person's head when the words "college football" are mentioned. Most of the time, visions of Archie Griffin or Ricky Bell are imagined as they scoot through a microscopic hole in the line. Or perhaps it is a Dewey Selmon or an Eddie Beamon that flashes in the mind as they wreck more things in an opponent's backfield than General Sherman did on his way to the sea.

That is all well and good, and those athletes are to be applauded for their efforts. But the college football that I speak of can be found right here in good old Ohio, and in ample portions.

I speak of the Mid American Conference and the Ohio Conference, where you won't find a lot of future All-Pros, but you'll find games played like a national championship was on the line.

Places like Ohio University, Miami University at Oxford, the University of Akron, Capital University, Ohio Wesleyan, Denison, Muskingum, Baldwin-Wallace, Wooster, and all the others will hold as many thrills and spills for you on an autumn Saturday afternoon as places like Ann Arbor, Austin, Boulder, Gainesville, Lincoln, Columbus, or Los Angeles.

A lot of people say from time to time that there isn't much difference between good high school and "small college" football. If you ever find anyone who believes that statement, tell them you have this big bridge in Brooklyn that you'd like to sell them—they'll probably believe that too.

It all boils down to this at the "small college" level—there you won't find any huge scholarships, or summer job promises, or big cars, or questionable recruiting practices—and very few allegations of the same, because in many cases the schools only offer assistance to a player on the basis of his financial need. What you will find in "small college" football is something that is almost non-existent today—you will find young men going out and participating in a sport because they like to. Period.

The fearless forecast—the Clippers will go out on a winning note this weekend, we like the Golden Bear in the World Series of Golf, and hey you Dodger fans—we're only eight and a half games away.

Until next time, have a nice day—be a good sport.

Braves Hold Picture Day This Evening

The Logan Elm High School and the Logan Elm boosters will hold their annual picture day starting at 5 p.m. today at the high school stadium.

Parents and friends are invited to come to the school with their cameras and take pictures of the players and cheerleaders.

Bengals Most Explosive Grid Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pro football's most explosive team of the preseason, the Cincinnati Bengals, put a three-game winning streak on the line Saturday night against the Minnesota Vikings, who last week crushed one of the National Football League's only unbeaten teams.

The preseason match pits a perennial Super Bowl participant against one that appears ready to make the jump.

Both clubs are 3-1 and fresh from impressive outings.

The Vikings rebounded from their first loss of the preseason, a 29-7 setback to Baltimore, by handing Miami a 33-7 drubbing.

The Bengals have been overpowering since a season-opening 23-20 loss to Green Bay when quarterback Ken Anderson and a half-dozen other starters were held out of action.

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant says Cincinnati is a potent club "with great outside speed in Isaac Curtis and Billy Brooks." He said the Vikings will continue to experiment with a 5-2 defensive alignment, along with the '34' which Oakland and Houston popularized in the past couple years.

Cincinnati, fortified by an abundance of draft talent, shows signs it has come up with a defense to match its powerful offense.

The Bengals have outscored their last three opponents 95-22 while rolling up victories over Tampa Bay, Detroit and St. Louis. Cincinnati dumped the Cards 33-9 last week as reserve running back Lenvil Elliott ripped off 136 yards.

Minnesota is the No. 2 scoring team in the NFL, but the Vikings are allowing almost 22 points per game to the Bengals 11.

Coach Bill Johnson calls the Vikings "one of the soundest teams in football" and praised the zone defense of the four-time Super Bowl participants.

Lady Golfers Hold Meeting

The September meeting of the Ladies Golf Association at the Pickaway Country Club was held Thursday after golf scramble was played.

Winners of the scramble were, Ruth Marshall, Betty Danford and Eleanor Stocklin taking first place. Second place team winners were Ruth Porter, Gert Rickerd, Carolyn McCoy and Marge Thornton. Third place went to Helen Kazelskis, Marge Sharff, Alice Camp and Fran Chelikowski.

The nominating committee was selected during the business meeting for the election of officers to be held in October.

Witte To Play In Switzerland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Luke Witte, an often-injured backup center for the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association, will join a Pully, Switzerland, team next season.

Bill Fitch, the Cavaliers' coach and general manager, said the former Ohio State standout told him during the summer that he didn't want to remain as the Cleveland club's No. 4 pivot.

Fitch said the Pully team is one of 12 in the Division I European League. Witte missed most of the last two seasons with injuries, a broken foot last year and a sprained ankle the preceding season.

.500 Baseball At Home Is Not Good Enough

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox learned simple arithmetic the hard way: .500 ball at home is not good enough.

The Red Sox finished a .505 stand at Fenway Park with a 3-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Thursday, but there was little to cheer. The stand cost them three games, as they fell 3 1-2 games behind the first-place New York Yankees in the American League East.

"We have to snap out of this win one, lose one habit," veteran Carl Yastrzemski said before the Red Sox left on an eight-game road trip, a tough journey which could determine the team's pennant hopes.

"We're going to have to win two out of three in Texas and four out of five in Toronto on this trip," Yaz said. "We're going to have to get some good pitching and good hitting. There's still plenty of time to make a good run at it."

"The Yankees have played good baseball. No one can deny that. But they could go into a spin the same as we did. You never know. We have five games left with the Yankees and we have to do well on this road trip to give ourselves a chance."

"We've been struggling and it's a must that we have a good road trip." Manager Don Zimmer said. "That's all there is to it. There's only one month to go and every game is important."

"We just have to have a good road trip," said second baseman Denny Doyle. "We can't have another 1-6 disaster like we had the last road trip. We have to forget about the Yankees, take all games one at a time and win them one at a time."

Yastrzemski, steadily moving up on baseball's all-time leaders in several offensive departments, led the way as

Perez Becomes TV Star

CINCINNATI (AP) — Now that he's with another team, Tony Perez has become a valuable advertising commodity.

In 13 years in Cincinnati, Perez, who was always a hometown favorite, did only one local advertisement on television.

Now that he's wearing a Montreal Expos uniform, Perez has suddenly found himself the star of a local banking advertisement.

No one was more shocked about the turn of events than Perez, who discovered he had a shot at doing the radio and TV spots for a banking card used by Central Trust Co. and several other financial institutions.

"They want me? I'm gone now," he said.

But they did want him. Leo McMullan, a local advertising executive, said that the decision to use Perez came because of his continuing popularity here.

"He got a tremendous ovation the first time he came back," said McMullan, who said that more commercials using Perez are planned in the future.

He taped the ads during the Expos last visit to Cincinnati and proudly proclaimed "it only took me two takes."

"Ironically," the advertising agent said. "The same day that he did the spots, he was instrumental in beating the Reds later in the day."

The advertisement puts him in a

Willie's Dillies

By A BENCHWARMER

By now everyone is aware of the fact that football is charging headlong toward the start of the 1977 season. And a glance at the sports pages will tell you that scribes far and wide are gleaming any kind of information that they can put into print about the grid wars ahead. In our own little corner of the sports world, we have been expounding on the area high schools, and never for a minute think that we are losing interest in them.

But today I would like to say a few words about another level of football, the collegiate competition.

There are several notions conjured up in a person's head when the words "college football" are mentioned. Most of the time, visions of Archie Griffin or Ricky Bell are imagined as they scoot through a microscopic hole in the line. Or perhaps it is a Dewey Selmon or an Eddie Beamon that flashes in the mind as they wreck more things in an opponent's backfield than General Sherman did on his way to the sea.

That is all well and good, and those athletes are to be applauded for their efforts. But the college football that I speak of can be found right here in good old Ohio, and in ample portions.

I speak of the Mid American Conference and the Ohio Conference, where you won't find a lot of future All-Pros, but you'll find games played like a national championship was on the line.

Places like Ohio University, Miami University at Oxford, the University of Akron, Capital University, Ohio Wesleyan, Denison, Muskingum, Baldwin-Wallace, Wooster, and all the others will hold as many thrills and spills for you on an autumn Saturday afternoon as places like Ann Arbor, Austin, Boulder, Gainesville, Lincoln, Columbus, or Los Angeles.

A lot of people say from time to time that there isn't much difference between good high school and "small college" football. If you ever find anyone who believes that statement, tell them you have this big bridge in Brooklyn that you'd like to sell them—they'll probably believe that too.

It all boils down to this at the "small college" level—there you won't find any huge scholarships, or summer job promises, or big cars, or questionable recruiting practices—and very few allegations of the same, because in many cases the schools only offer assistance to a player on the basis of his financial need. What you will find in "small college" football is something that is almost non-existent today—you will find young men going out and participating in a sport because they like to. Period.

The fearless forecast—the Clippers will go out on a winning note this weekend, we like the Golden Bear in the World Series of Golf, and hey you Dodger fans—we're only eight and a half games away.

Until next time, have a nice day—be a good sport.

Braves Hold Picture Day This Evening

The Logan Elm High School and the Logan Elm boosters will hold their annual picture day starting at 5 p.m. today at the high school stadium.

Parents and friends are invited to come to the school with their cameras and take pictures of the players and cheerleaders.

Bengals Most Explosive Grid Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pro football's most explosive team of the preseason, the Cincinnati Bengals, put a three-game winning streak on the line Saturday night against the Minnesota Vikings, who last week crushed one of the National Football League's only unbeaten teams.

The preseason match pits a perennial Super Bowl participant against one that appears ready to make the jump.

Both clubs are 3-1 and fresh from impressive outings.

The Vikings rebounded from their first loss of the preseason, a 29-7 setback to Baltimore, by handing Miami a 33-7 drubbing.

The Bengals have been overpowering since a season-opening 23-20 loss to Green Bay when quarterback Ken Anderson and a half-dozen other starters were held out of action.

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant says Cincinnati is a potent club "with great outside speed in Isaac Curtis and Billy Brooks." He said the Vikings will continue to experiment with a 5-2 defensive alignment, along with the '34' which Oakland and Houston popularized in the past couple years.

Cincinnati, fortified by an abundance of draft talent, shows signs it has come up with a defense to match its powerful offense.

The Bengals have outscored their last three opponents 95-22 while rolling up victories over Tampa Bay, Detroit and St. Louis. Cincinnati dumped the Cards 33-9 last week as reserve running back Lenvil Elliott ripped off 136 yards.

Minnesota is the No. 2 scoring team in the NFL, and the Vikings are allowing almost 22 points per game to the Bengals 11.

Coach Bill Johnson calls the Vikings "one of the soundest teams in football" and praised the zone defense of the four-time Super Bowl participants.

Reds Make Last Struggle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, making a last struggle to catch the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West, send Paul Moskau against Jim Lonborg tonight in the first of three games with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Reds have won 14 out of their last 18 games. Reds Manager Sparky Anderson dropped Doug Capilla from the pitching rotation Sunday, because of Thursday's off day. He will send Fred Norman against the Phillies Sunday.

Norman, 13-10, has won his last four games.

The off day enabled the Reds to rest some ailing regulars. Ken Griffey was sidelined with a bad heel and Johnny Bench, who had suffered muscle spasms in his right shoulder, will return to the lineup tonight.

"We have to get within five games by next weekend," said Joe Morgan. "We still have five games left with the Dodgers and we want to be at least that close so we can do it ourselves."

The Reds host the Dodgers next weekend for a crucial series.

But Cincinnati must first get by Philadelphia and Houston.

Cincinnati swept the Phils at home last week but the Phils have won 15 in a row at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia. They have a 50-14 home record this season.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, has lost 35 while winning only 30 on the road this season.

"I don't know why, but we have been a different team away from home," said Anderson.

Packers Lose Quarterback

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers, who cut two quarterbacks from the roster this week, lost another Thursday when Gary Marangi failed his physical with the National Football League team.

Marangi, a four-year veteran who previously underwent surgery twice on the shoulder of his throwing arm, had been acquired Wednesday from the Buffalo Bills.

Signal callers Carlos Brown and Randy Johnson were released by Green Bay earlier in the week, leaving just starter Lynn Dickey and the inexperienced David Whitehurst.

But Packer Coach Bart Starr said he was not concerned.

"The release of Johnson was not connected with the acquisition of Marangi," he said, even though both moves took place on the same day.

Starr said there were not any other quarterback prospects he was willing to talk about publicly.

Meanwhile, the Cleveland Browns announced that Dave Mays will be their starting quarterback Saturday night at Green Bay, with Brian Sipe playing the second half.

The Browns are coached by Forrest Gregg, a former teammate of Starr on the Packers, and it will be Gregg's first visit to Lambeau Field in that position.

Decide Worth

OAKLAND (AP) — Larry O'Brien, the National Basketball Association's commissioner, has heard arguments from both sides and now must decide whether a high draft choice is sufficient compensation due the Golden State Warriors for the loss of forward Jamaal Wilkes.

The Los Angeles Lakers, who signed Wilkes as a free agent in July, proposed giving up a first-round choice in the next college player draft as payment to Golden State.

Forest Hills Weathers Circus Match

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

"I hope the zoo-like atmosphere now is ended," sighed Dr. Renee Richards.

The gaunt features showed signs of strain and exhaustion. Her dark hair hung in strings down her long, straight neck. Beads of perspiration cascaded down her flushed cheeks.

Staid, old Forest Hills had weathered its circus match, a center court duel between a 43-year-old transsexual and the reigning Wimbledon titleholder, Britain's Virginia Wade, and the eagles atop the famous concrete horseshoe didn't come tumbling down.

It was historic. It was largely uneventful. It was sad.

The aggressive, hard-hitting Ms. Wade won about as expected over the tall former New York ophthalmologist 6-1, 6-4. In doing so, she only proved she could beat almost any 43-year-old man or woman of sub-professional level.

Dr. Richards, who once played good tennis as a man named Richard Raskind, proved to be a personality of endless patience and grace under the most trying circumstances.

The center court crowd of 12,021 at the second day of U.S. Open Tennis Championships behaved admirably, displaying a charitable sentiment for the broad-shouldered 6-foot-2 transsexual but dividing its applause evenly on applaudable shots.

Still, there was something depressing about what should have been a pleasant spots frolic in the sun.

Dr. Richards, who had to go to court to break down barriers to keep her out of the tournament, continued to be viewed as an oddity, a freak, as she herself once described it bitterly, "a creature with two heads."

Before the match, curiosity seekers jammed the clubhouse veranda outside the women's dressing room just for a chance to gawk at a human being still struggling with an identity.

Like kids following the Pied Piper, they dogged her footsteps as she was escorted, five racquets in her arms, to the stadium, walking 10 yards behind her opponent. An icy relationship had grown between the two.

The match was predictable. Tournament-toughened Virginia attacked every ball. Repeatedly she dunked across delicate drop shots that the heavy footed Renee could never reach.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Virginia Wade turned away the adventuring Renee Richards.

Chris Evert politely thrashed her first-round opponent.

And the two top male seeds, Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors, flicked away their rivals like pieces of dust, despite injuries that delayed their first appearances.

Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old transsexual who went to court for the right to play here, got her chance Thursday, but lost to the Wimbledon champion 6-1, 6-4. The second set gave cause for alarm as Dr. Richards took the fourth and fifth games before Ms. Wade regained her service.

Miss Evert disposed of Sharon Walsh of Mill Valley, Calif., 6-0, 6-1 and looked as though she were doing little more than a light workout in the 90-degrees muggy air.

Top-seeded Borg overcame an aching shoulder to eliminate Trey Waltke of St. Louis; and defending champion Connors, whose back had ailed him for several days, set aside Jasjit Singh of Grossinger, N.Y., 6-2, 6-0.

Borg, Connors and Miss Evert faced second-round apponents today. Borg was to meet John James of Australia, while Connors plays Bob Lutz of San Clemente, Calif., tonight. Miss Evert ws to battle Pam Whytcross of Australia.

Dr. Richards clearly was nervous as Ms. Wade bounced about the court accurately returning and delivering piercing volleys.

But she was smiling and dignified after the match as she said, "I can't think of losing 6-1, 6-4 as a victory of any kind, moral or otherwise. But it was certainly a big experience for me."

"I'm in very good condition," she said. "But it's not all physical; it's partially mental. And nervous exhaustion can take its toll physically just the way running from side to side does during a match."

Miss Evert, starting her first major tournament since losing to Ms. Wade in the Wimbledon semifinals, was frank about her feelings that the Open will be essential to maintain her dominance in the women's field.

"It means a lot to me," she said. "I'm really psyched for this. Ever since the day I lost Wimbledon, I've been looking forward to coming here."

Reds Make Last Struggle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, making a last struggle to catch the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West, send Paul Moskau against Jim Lonborg tonight in the first of three games with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Reds have won 14 out of their last 18 games. Reds Manager Sparky Anderson dropped Doug Capilla from the pitching rotation Sunday, because of Thursday's off day. He will send Fred Norman against the Phillies Sunday.

Norman, 13-10, has won his last four games.

The off day enabled the Reds to rest some ailing regulars. Ken Griffey was sidelined with a bad heel and Johnny Bench, who had suffered muscle spasms in his right shoulder, will return to the lineup tonight.

"We have to get within five games by next weekend," said Joe Morgan. "We still have five games left with the Dodgers and we want to be at least that close so we can do it ourselves."

The Reds host the Dodgers next weekend for a crucial series.

But Cincinnati must first get by Philadelphia and Houston.

Cincinnati swept the Phils at home last week but the Phils have won 15 in a row at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia. They have a 50-14 home record this season.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, has lost 35 while winning only 30 on the road this season.

"I don't know why, but we have been a different team away from home," said Anderson.

Packers Lose Quarterback

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers, who cut two quarterbacks from the roster this week, lost another Thursday when Gary Marangi failed his physical with the National Football League team.

Marangi, a four-year veteran who previously underwent surgery twice on the shoulder of his throwing arm, had been acquired Wednesday from the Buffalo Bills.

Signal callers Carlos Brown and Randy Johnson were released by Green Bay earlier in the week, leaving just starter Lynn Dickey and the inexperienced David Whitehurst.

4-Way Deadlock At Top Of MD Classic

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Jane Blalock, one of four pros tied for the lead in the LPGA Rail Muscular Dystrophy Golf Classic at four-under-par 68, had a game plan for today's second round.

"I'm going to play tomorrow like I shot 76 today," she said Thursday after finishing in a tie with Hollis Stacy, current U.S. open champion; Sally Little and Betsy Cullen. "Sixty-eights are not good enough for a tournament lead any more."

Little, though, who had three birdies and an eagle, said, "You've got to be doing something right when you shoot 68. It seemed so easy. But you have to come back tomorrow."

Sarah LeVeque of Springfield was low among the five amateurs entered in the tournament with a three-over-par 75.

In all, 24 players equaled or bettered the par-72 course.

Defending champion Sandra Palmer was off the pace at 73.

The field in the $100,000 tournament will be cut to the low 60 and ties after today's second round.

10-Year-Old Builds Robot

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A precocious 10-year-old visiting his grandparents here recently brought along a friend — a self-admitted pile of junk.

"My name is Wiric...I can do many things...I can blink my eyes...I can tweet like a bird..." announces the stubby robot tweeting and flashing his lights.

Ricky Ross, visiting with his parents from Wilmington, Del., designed and built the automaton using spare walkie-talkie parts "and just some junk."

"I am made of 189 screws and 155 feet of wire...I am made of wire and Ricky built me..." pipes Wiric.

The robot's voice is that of Ricky's father, Robert Ross. It comes through a speaker in Wiric's nose from a tape recorder hidden in a wood brief case it carries.

Wiric can walk forwards and backwards, tell the temperature with an electronic indicator on its chest and raise its arm in greeting.

Ross, a chemical engineer with DuPont, is quick to point out that "electricity is just not my strong point. Ricky learned all this himself."

According to Ricky, he "just started fooling around with science and things and just got hooked on electronics."

"Pat Ross says her son is what educators call a "gifted child." He recently spent two weeks in Washington D.C. with 22 other exceptional children from around the nation chosen by the Optimal Growth Institute, which studies such children.

Mrs. Ross said Ricky began reading and doing mathematics at 3. Teachers have suggested he enroll in a private school, where accelerated programs could keep his interest, she said.

"Oh, sometimes it is difficult to raise a child like him," Mrs. Ross admits, "...but he's a well-rounded child, that's what they tell us."

Despite his precociousness, Ricky's no "egghead" or a "bookworm", says his mother. He seems more interested in his robot and other tinkering projects than academic pursuits.

With Wiric completed, Ricky is working on a remote-control robot. Unlike Wiric, who is restricted by the electrical cord leading to a control box that Ricky holds, the new robot will be controlled by radio.

"I saw the one on 'Lost in Space,' but there's a man inside that one," Ricky notes.

The new robot may be able to do the things that Ricky dislikes, such as take out the garbage.

Despite his handiness with electronic gadgets, Ricky plans to be a veterinarian, not an electronic's engineer. "I think I'd like to be a vet and just keep the electronics as a hobby," he said.

An astronomical unit, used to measure celestial distance, is defined as the mean distance from the earth to the sun, or about 93 million miles.

Although there are only about 6,000 stars visible to the naked eye, there are an estimated 100 billion in the Milky Way galaxy alone.

and just got hooked on electronics." Pat Ross says her son is what educators call a "gifted child." He recently spent two weeks in Washington D.C. with 22 other exceptional children from around the nation chosen by the Optimal Growth Institute, which studies such children.

Mrs. Ross said Ricky began reading and doing mathematics at 3. Teachers have suggested he enroll in a private school, where accelerated programs could keep his interest, she said.

"Oh, sometimes it is difficult to raise a child like him," Mrs. Ross admits, "...but he's a well-rounded child, that's what they tell us."

Despite his precociousness, Ricky's no "egghead" or a "bookworm", says his mother. He seems more interested in his robot and other tinkering projects than academic pursuits.

With Wiric completed, Ricky is working on a remote-control robot. Unlike Wiric, who is restricted by the electrical cord leading to a control box that Ricky holds, the new robot will be controlled by radio.

"I saw the one on 'Lost in Space,' but there's a man inside that one," Ricky notes.

The new robot may be able to do the things that Ricky dislikes, such as take out the garbage.

Despite his handiness with electronic gadgets, Ricky plans to be a veterinarian, not an electronic's engineer. "I think I'd like to be a vet and just keep the electronics as a hobby," he said.

An astronomical unit, used to measure celestial distance, is defined as the mean distance from the earth to the sun, or about 93 million miles.

Although there are only about 6,000 stars visible to the naked eye, there are an estimated 100 billion in the Milky Way galaxy alone.

201 LANCASTER PIKE CIRCLEVILLE

IS IT A RECORD? — On the lazy Sunday afternoon before the beginning of school, these boys found an unusual way to spend their time. They carefully tied together rubber bands to make one large one measuring 2,330 feet. They are, from the left, Bart Hughes, 603 N. Court St., and Greg and Randy Huffer, 1009 Lynwood Ave.

Forecast For The Fields

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Thundershowers will continue through Monday. Activity will increase in central and southern Ohio tonight and Saturday. This will be a weather period to keep close watch on livestock.

FIELD OPERATIONS — Rainfall may be generous in some of the heavier thundershowers, so field delays are likely from wet soil surface conditions particularly in the north today and central and south Saturday. Drying will be slow in mornings then a little faster in afternoons but length of drying periods will tend to be short with no net gain in improving surface conditions for field work. Evaporation losses will be under 0.15 inch statewide Saturday.

POTATO HARVEST — Where soils are fit, potato digging operations should proceed as fast as possible. Soils will become wetter and danger of spoilage will be increasing. The warmth will present some problem for potatoes going into storage. Any cooler nighttime temperatures to help cool and condition potatoes is not likely until Tuesday.

HAYING OUTLOOK — Opportunity to cut and cure hay will be limited through the weekend and Monday by wetting risk up to 90 per cent in the north and 50 per cent elsewhere. Drying will be minimal in mornings and only briefly at moderate rates in afternoons between shower periods. Dry cure time under present weather conditions would be four or more days.

TOBACCO — Cutting conditions will be poor due to heat and wetting risk. Any tobacco now in field will need to be moved to barns to prevent fairly high risk of wetting tonight and Saturday. Humidity levels will be higher than usual during the next three or four days and growers will need to watch barn ventilation closely. Afternoon humidity will be in 60s or higher and in 90s for a long period at night into mid

Disaster Loan Policy Set By FmHA, SBA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two federal agencies have come to an agreement on how to proceed with emergency loans to farmers stricken by droughts, hurricanes and other natural disasters in hopes of not getting tangled in each other's red tape.

A memorandum of understanding between the Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration has been signed with that in mind, officials said Thursday.

The FHA is part of the Agriculture Department and the SBA is an independent agency. Both have been engaged in making emergency disaster loans to farmers. The agreement was signed by Gordon Cavanaugh, administrator of FmHA, and Vernon Weaver, head of SBA. Officials said that the agreement pledged the two agencies "to cooperate in the use of their respective loanmaking authorities to complement each other" and to improve and expand financial assistance to farmers "with the least possible degree of overlapping confusing or duplicating activities."

A spokesman said that prospective borrowers from FmHA will still have to show that they cannot get credit from regular commercial sources — a policy of many years — while those who get loans from SBA do not have to meet such a credit test.

For some time, the FmHA offered emergency loans to qualified farmers at an annual interest rate of 5 per cent. Since authorized to make farm emergency loans in 1975, SBA has offered loans at 3 per cent.

But recent legislation which grew out of congressional oversight hearings on farm emergency credit now requires FmHA to charge interest morning hours.

LIVESTOCK — Heat and humidity combinations will present a high stress risk to animals and poultry Saturday particularly in south and central. Special care will be needed to prevent serious health risk, especially during market transit.

rates no higher than SBA for similar loans. Thus, the spokesman said, current FmHA emergency loans are being made at the 3 per cent rate.

The memorandum signed by Cavanaugh and Weaver also provides for "prompt and continuous interchange of information between the two agencies at national, state and district office levels where each is authorized to make farm disaster loans.

"A farmer may make initial inquiry about emergency financing to either agency but will be directed for filing of a formal application to the one where, it appears, the applicant can best be served," the announcement said.

Also, although a farmer will have an application pending only to one agency at a time, he will be able to apply to the second agency if denied a loan by the first.

"If during consideration by one agency, it develops that the application should apply to the other agency, financial and credit data already compiled by the first agency will not have to be recompiled." That is one way the two agencies hope to reduce paperwork and streamline their operations.

THE MOST ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT CB

What is the "Instant CB License" I have been hearing about?

It used to be that you had to wait until the FCC mailed you a CB license before you went on-the-air. It was unrealistic to think that a CBER could wait up to 2 months for a license to come through before he used his newly acquired radio transceiver. In early 1976, the FCC adopted a self-issued temporary license that you could use in the interim until your actual FCC ticket was received. FCC form 555-B is used to issue yourself a Temporary Permit. The license is issued by assigning yourself a call sign based on the initials of your first and last name after the letter "K" and then followed by your postal zip code. For example: KFM-75081. You also must certify on the form that you are 18 years old, have not been involved in any previous FCC violations, and that you have applied for the standard Class-D Citizens Radio Station License. Forms are available from any FCC District Office and most vendors of CB radio equipment. The temporary permit is valid for 60 days from the date the Standard Class-D license was applied for.

How do I renew or change my CB license?

Your CB license is normally valid for five years from the date it was issued or renewed. You renew or modify your license in the same way that you applied for a new CB license. You should allow at least 60 days for FCC action on your application. The FCC is considering reminding licensees to renew before the 5 year period has expired. The renewal license could also become a postcard sized return mailer, but this has not yet been decided on. If you send in your renewal before the expiration date, you are allowed to operate until the FCC acts on your license — even if your license expires before you receive the new renewal license.

Who can operate my CB radio? Who can't?

Only yourself and members of your immediate family living in your household can operate under your license. This applies to personal individual Class-D licenses. Your transmitter must not be used under the authority of any CB license other than yours. This means you can not allow anyone to operate your equipment using a different FCC call sign. The licensee is responsible for all transmissions which he makes or is made by others, including transmissions which are in violation of the rules.

What are the penalties for violating FCC rules when using my CB radio?

If the FCC finds that you have intentionally violated the rules, you can be fined as much as $100 for each violation, up to a total of $500. The FCC can revoke your license. If a Federal Court finds that you have wilfully and knowingly violated any FCC rule, you can be fined up to $500 for each day the violation was committed. If any provision of the Communications Act is intentionally violated, you may be fined up to $10,000 and/or be imprisoned for one year. The penalties for FCC violations are stiff ones!

Can I make any changes or adjustments to my CB radio?

You are prohibited from making any internal modifications or adjustments to your CB transmitter — nor can you operate one that has been modified by anyone in any way, including modification to operate on unauthorized frequencies or with unauthorized power. You may adjust your own antenna and you may make "radio checks", but any internal repair or adjustment must be made by or under the direct supervision of an FCC licensed commercial radio-telephone operator.

How much power can I use?

Your CB radio transmitter output power must not exceed 4 watts carrier power for AM or 12 watts peak-envelope-power on Single Sideband. You must not attach or use in any way any device which would amplify the output power of a CB radio station. The FCC legally presumes that you have used a power amplifier if one is found on your premises or in your possession.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Should you survive the Labor Day ramble intact, be advised that Monday night NBC will sock it to you — with the first of six new "Laugh-In" specials it has ordered this season.

No, Dan Rowan, the lovely and charming Dick Martin, Lily Tomlin and others of its 1968-73 era aren't on it. Nor is it as consistently sharp as the weekly version, no doubt because it was taped last summer and lacks the current events assaults that made the weekly show sparkle.

But its gag-a-second, noholds-barred flavor still is there, likewise its man in the yellow raincoat who still falls off his tricycle and its merciless attacks on a distinguished American hamlet.

"If you liked Bangladesh, you'll love Burbank," notes the show's hostess, Bette Davis, supported by such noted guest players as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Ralph Nader and Rich Little. Says consumerist Nader:

"If American Tobacco merged with C&H Sugar, you'd have lung decay." Observes the senator: "This is a great country where anybody can grow up to be president — except me."

So it goes, the recycled show mixing such olden goodies as "Laugh-In Looks at the News" and the gag-filled disco scene with a new batch of bits by 16 writers and new skits by 13 new regulars.

There is one certified bellylaugh in the hour, a filmed inquiry — directed by Sam Peckinpah — into the effects of TV violence.

Alas, I've no doubt homosexual groups will not laugh at the show's "Salute to Anita Bryant," in which four cops prance about, sing "Carolina in the Morning" with new lyrics too indelicate for a repeat in family newspapers, then emerge in evening gowns to croon, "I Enjoy Being a Girl."

However, that is "Laugh-In" — bad taste here, a dud there, a chuckler elsewhere, all in a flurry of comic sights and sounds that zip by so fast you may forget the bombs while laughing at the good ones.

Best of all, producer George Schlatter has once again given the tube a first-rate tribe of comic regulars, most of them new to TV.

Of the rookies, I'd bet that Scottish comic Robin Williams becomes the first to graduate to the fame of the show's original gang, followed by newcomers Jim Giovanni, June Gable and Ben Powers.

Later Monday, Patrick McGeehan, a superb actor, starts his new "Rafferty" series on CBS, playing a gruff, blunt, wholly decent ex-Army doctor now in civilian practice after 23 military years.

His premiere show features life-saving emergency surgery, a $3.8 million malpractice suit, a discreet hint of a lesbian affair by a jet-setter, a puzzling illness he cures and a generally lousy script.

Sample dialogue: "She moved her arms just then. It's a miracle."

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If you have been planning any changes in your home or property, now is a good time to start making them. Family will not only approve but will help.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A better day for completing old projects than for beginning new ones. In leisure time, devote yourself to a creative hobby.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your knowledge and ability to cope with the unexpected could result in outstanding advantages. Spend time and talents constructively. This day will be rich in opportunity.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Friends and associates are working for you in the background, and you should soon profit from some efforts you've long since forgotten.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Keep perception needed. Planetary influences somewhat restrictive. Don't risk present assets on the basis of "information" based on nothing.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Avoid anxiety and excitement; make no unnecessary changes in smooth-running projects. Romance and family interests in special planetary favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): New and diversified activities indicated. Review past week's efforts to guide you in formulating future plans. Romance and family interests favored.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): A new venture in the making? Elaborate on tentative presentation until it assumes bright character. Some new trends indicated. You should enjoy the stimulus.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): The accent now is on social activity. Welcome the opportunity to meet people, make new friends, perhaps make contacts invaluable, business-wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): There may be some conflict between desire and necessity. Be realistic, as the Capricornian usually is, and the answer will come. Romance and travel favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A situation on your home base may be annoying, but try to understand the dilemma confronting a family member. If faced in a mature manner, you can help find a solution.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A new outlook will help you to improve relations with family, associates. Insight may come through your highly intuitive faculties... more flexibility through the erasure of past concepts.

YOU BORN TODAY are notably steadfast, purposeful, domestically inclined and always faithful to a trust. You seldom change occupations unless circumstances so compel, and you do a bang-up job for both superiors and dependents. Virgoans are wonderful at keeping secrets, which is why they make trusted associates and valuable confidential secretaries. You are extremely sensitive and sometimes self-conscious, though your gentleness and graciousness usually belies this. Fields in which you could excel: education, theology, chemistry, banking, journalism and literature. You would also make an outstanding literary or dramatic critic. Birthdate of Sarah C. Jewett, novelist.

Wholesale Prices Inch Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices inched ahead by one-tenth of a per cent in August as a fourth consecutive monthly decline in farm prices nearly offset increases in other areas, the Labor Department reported today.

The small August increase in wholesale prices followed two months of decline in the government's Wholesale Price Index.

Farm prices declined another 4.3 per cent, the fourth consecutive month of decline, which is a welcome trend for consumers but continuing bad news for farmers, who have seen their farm income steadily eroding in recent months.

Lower prices were recorded during

44-Year-Old Father Wins Ohio Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm exuberant. It's a good feeling. I don't know whether I have fully absorbed it yet. But it's fantastic."

That's the way Ronald A. Veirs, a pricing analyst for the NCR Corp. in Dayton, described an experience most people would like to have — winning $55,000.

Veirs walked off with the big winnings in The Ohio Lottery's television drawing Thursday.

The 44-year-old father of one says he will use the money to pay some bills and then try to let the rest "get away from me too easily."

He said he thought if anything helped him win, it was the well-wishing of his friends and relatives. Veirs can return next week to defend his title and try to win more money. Between now and then he said he will "sit back and think about what has happened to me."

Other winners were: A.B. Roosevelt Flood, Delaware, $7,200; Harold C. Henry, Toledo, $6,000; Dolores Snider, Lancaster, $9,400; Eva and Margo Auskaps, Cincinnati, $10,800; and Amelia Kearsley, last week's big winner of $85,000, Sandusky, $7,600.

Cogswell Gets PostAt Piketon A-Plant

PIKETON, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration has named Ralph E. Cogswell chief of the modifications and claims branch for the Portsmouth area office.

The area office is responsible for construction of a $4.5 billion gaseous centrifuge uranium enrichment plant scheduled for completion in 1988.

The ERDA also announced it is seeking an architect-engineer firm for the engineering and design of the process buildings and supplemental facilities for the plant.

Architect-engineer firms interested in the project are asked to contact the ERDA's Oak Ridge, Tenn., operations office.

Cogswell of Washington, D.C., will be responsible for managing the settlement and administration of modifications and claims to the various contracts awarded for the project.

the month for coffee, eggs, livestock, grains and poultry, while prices increased for fresh and dried fruits and vegetables.

Price trends at the wholesale level are eventually reflected in prices consumers pay for the finished product, although not all at once.

The Labor Department said prices of industrial commodities rose five-tenths of one per cent in August for the second consecutive month, largely because of a 4.1 per cent hike in prices of lumber and wood products, and a nine-tenths of one per cent hike in prices of transportation equipment, especially for autos and auto parts.

Prices of processed foods and feeds declined eight-tenths of one per cent in August, much less than the July decline of 2.4 per cent.

On the whole, the August price report was favorable. The overall increase of wholesale prices for the 12-month period ending in August was 5.9 per cent.

Wholesale prices had declined one-tenth of one per cent in July and seven-tenths of one per cent in June following increases in the previous nine months.

The Wholesale Price Index for August stood at 194.6, meaning that goods which cost $100 in 1967 were priced at $194.60 last month.

The figures are adjusted for seasonal variations. Without taking seasonal factors into account, overall wholesale prices actually declined in August by two-tenths of one per cent.

The Labor Department also said that looking at wholesale prices a different way — according to the prices users of the wholesale goods would eventually receive — prices also rose one-tenth of one per cent in August on an adjusted basis.

This measurement of wholesale prices, which the agency said it will stress in future months, is called the Finished Goods Price Index.

The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that farm prices declined 3 per cent in August, the third monthly drop in a row. Prices for the 12-month period ending in August were down 6 per cent.

While that is good news for consumers, it is bad news for farmers, whose income has eroded considerably in recent months.

The Carter administration earlier this week sought to prop up income for wheat growers by directing them to trim their acreage for the new season by 20 per cent.

The Agriculture Department said prices paid to farmers in August were lower for soybeans, corn, hogs, broilers and potatoes, while they increased for tobacco, oranges and milk.

The latest developments in wholesale prices came as some Carter administration economists debated the wisdom of adopting new anti-inflation measures, possibly including some voluntary wage and price standards.

The administration is hoping to reduce inflation, currently running at an annual rate of between 6 and 7 per cent, to about 4 per cent by 1981.

Although some administration officials let it be known they favored wage and price standards, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the President hasn't endorsed the idea.

Published reports on the proposal caused some jitters in the business community, which is wary of anything that even suggests government controls over prices, voluntary or not. It's not just inflation that is worrying the government these days. Recent signs that the economy may be slowing more sharply than expected also are causing concern.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, met with Carter for an hour Wednesday and said later that the need for a tax cut will intensify if the economy clearly is faltering.

"When you're sick or hurt, I can give you some old-fashioned attention."

Wholesale Prices Inch Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices inched ahead by one-tenth of a per cent in August as a fourth consecutive monthly decline in farm prices nearly offset increases in other areas, the Labor Department reported today.

The small August increase in wholesale prices followed two months of decline in the government's Wholesale Price Index.

Farm prices declined another 4.3 per cent, the fourth consecutive month of decline, which is a welcome trend for consumers but continuing bad news for farmers, who have seen their farm income steadily eroding in recent months.

Lower prices were recorded during

44-Year-Old Father Wins Ohio Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm exuberant. It's a good feeling. I don't know whether I have fully absorbed it yet. But it's fantastic."

That's the way Ronald A. Veirs, a pricing analyst for the NCR Corp. in Dayton, described an experience most people would like to have — winning $55,000.

Veirs walked off with the big winnings in The Ohio Lottery's television drawing Thursday.

The 44-year-old father of one says he will use the money to pay some bills and then try not to let the rest "get away from me too easily."

He said he thought if anything helped him win, it was the well-wishing of his friends and relatives. Veirs can return next week to defend his title and try to win more money. Between now and then he said he will "sit back and think about what has happened to me."

Other winners were: A.B. Roosevelt Flood, Delaware, $7,200; Harold C. Henry, Toledo, $6,000; Dolores Snider, Lancaster, $9,400; Eva and Margo Auskaps, Cincinnati, $10,800; and Amelia Kearsley, last week's big winner of $85,000, Sandusky, $7,600.

Cogswell Gets Post

At Piketon A-Plant

PIKETON, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration has named Ralph E. Cogswell chief of the modifications and claims branch for the Portsmouth area office.

The area office is responsible for construction of a $4.5 billion gaseous centrifuge uranium enrichment plant scheduled for completion in 1988.

The ERDA also announced it is seeking an architect-engineer firm for the engineering and design of the process buildings and supplemental facilities for the plant.

Architect-engineer firms interested in the project are asked to contact the ERDA's Oak Ridge, Tenn., operations office.

Cogswell of Washington, D.C., will be responsible for managing the settlement and administration of modifications and claims to the various contracts awarded for the project.

The University of Missouri at Columbia uses coal to produce nearly all of its heat and more than 50 per cent of its power.

Many lizards can swiftly shed their tails, evidently to escape danger. The broken-off tail snaps and jumps and distracts the predator while the lizard flees.

Answers For Veterans

EDITORS NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration Benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 South Court Street.

Q. Exactly what is the difference between Pension and Compensation? I always thought both meant the same thing.

A. Compensation is a benefit paid by the Veterans Administration for a disability which occurred in Service. Or, in other words for a Service Connected Disability. Pension is a benefit paid by the VA for a disability which is not the result of service. To receive a Pension, a veteran must be Totally and Permanently disabled. Compensation is paid in Degrees of from 10 to 100 per cent. Pension is based on your income.

Q. Are there any restrictions for VA service connected medical care for peacetime veterans?

A. Peace time veterans are on the same basis as wartime veterans for VA hospital and nursing home care. Honorable active service, even if only a day, entitles a person to hospital care for non service connected disabilities, if otherwise qualified. Basic requirements are 1. hospitalization is deemed necessary, 2. a bed is available, and 3. inability to pay for private hospital care. Inability to pay is not requirement in cases where a veteran is age 65 or over, or is receiving a pension.

Q. Can decorations, medals or ribbons be supplied by the government if the original ones have been lost or destroyed?

A. Yes, by writing the branch of the military that the veteran was in.

Q. I entered the service in 1970, am I eligible for the Viet Nam Bonus? I never was in Viet Nam.

A. The Ohio Viet Nam Bonus pays a maximum of $500 cash bonus or $1,000 educational assistance bonus to all eligible veterans of the Vietnam era, or a similar cash bonus to the next of kin of deceased veterans. In addition, the next of kin of veterans classified as MIA or KIA are entitled to a $1,000 cash bonus. The bonus is paid to living veterans, at the rate of $10.00 per month for stateside service, $15.00 per month for foreign service, and $20.00 per month for time served in Vietnam. To be eligible, a veteran must have served honorably in the Republic of Vietnam from February 28, 1961 to July 1, 1973 and or served in the armed forces in any type of service (domestic, foreign, or Vietnam) from August 5, 1964 to July 1, 1973, and whose domicile was the State of Ohio for one full year prior to entry into active service. The Deadline date for filing for the bonus is December 31, 1977.

CETA Jobs Explained

CETA is a federally sponsored job program regulated by federal guidelines. CETA funds are contracted with local governments and agencies, who then implement the CETA programs for the federal government.

Wages and job classifications are set by the agency who is implementing the CETA contract. There are several agencies presently administering CETA programs in this area, including several State of Ohio agencies.

The Pickaway County Commissioners presently operate a CETA program of 32 job slots. There are presently two openings under the commissioners' CETA program. Open slots include a tax map draftsman and an information and referral director. Interested applicants should first contact the local OBES office to see if they are eligible CETA applicants. Then contact can be made with Greg Bigam, at the commissioners office.

Any future CETA slots, through the Pickaway County Commissioners, will be listed with the local OBES office on N. Court St.

Answers For Veterans

EDITORS NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration Benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 South Court Street.

Q. Exactly what is the difference between Pension and Compensation? I always thought both meant the same thing.

A. Compensation is a benefit paid by the Veterans Administration for a disability which occurred in Service. Or, in other words for a Service Connected Disability. Pension is a benefit paid by the VA for a disability which is not the result of service. To receive a Pension, a veteran must be Totally and Permanently disabled. Compensation is paid in Degrees of from 10 to 100 per cent. Pension is based on your income.

Q. Are there any restrictions for VA service connected medical care for peacetime veterans?

A. Peace time veterans are on the same basis as wartime veterans for VA hospital and nursing home care. Honorable active service, even if only a day, entitles a person to hospital care for non service connected disabilities, if otherwise qualified. Basic requirements are 1. hospitalization is deemed necessary, 2. a bed is available, and 3. inability to pay for private hospital care. Inability to pay is not requirement in cases where a veteran is age 65 or over, or is receiving a pension.

Q. Can decorations, medals or ribbons be supplied by the government if the original ones have been lost or destroyed?

A. Yes, by writing the branch of the military that the veteran was in.

Q. I entered the service in 1970, am I eligible for the Viet Nam Bonus? I never was in Viet Nam.

A. The Ohio Viet Nam Bonus pays a maximum of $500 cash bonus or $1,000 educational assistance bonus to all eligible veterans of the Vietnam era, or a similar cash bonus to the next of kin of deceased veterans. In addition, the next of kin of veterans classified as MIA or KIA are entitled to a $1,000 cash bonus. The bonus is paid to living veterans, at the rate of $10.00 per month for stateside service, $15.00 per month for foreign service, and $20.00 per month for time served in Vietnam. To be eligible, a veteran must have served honorably in the Republic of Vietnam from February 28, 1961 to July 1, 1973 and or served in the armed forces in any type of service (domestic, foreign, or Vietnam) from August 5, 1964 to July 1, 1973, and whose domicile was the State of Ohio for one full year prior to entry into active service. The Deadline date for filing for the bonus is December 31, 1977.
